May 1 Start for Uptown Facelifting

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The "Pike Plan," up to now only a rendering on a canvass, will be the vehicle for a more than $500,000 face lifting of the Uptown Business District, starting shortly after May 1.

The Uptown Businessmen's Association met in regular session Tuesday morning and voted to begin work on the plan to renovate buildings on North Front and Wall Street to a turn of the century motif. Glenn Stampfle, president of the Businessmen's Association, told The Freeman today that agreements have been signed with 29 merchants and property owners on the East side of Wall Street from John Street to North Front Street. The businessmen, Stampfle said, are aiming at an April 1 start, but James G. Connors, executive director of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, said a May 1 date would be more likely.

The agency will spend some $512,650 as its share of the project, money budgeted for new sidewalks and curbing on Wall Street and sidewalks and curbing and sewer work on North Front Street. The agency has spent $81,250 in design fees to Architect Albert E. Milliken, who, in conjunction with Woodstock Artist John Pike, drew up the plans for the project. The businessmen's share was $16,250, based on $10 per lineal foot of store frontage. The agency paid $50 per foot under the planning agreement.

Connors said the agency will schedule construction so as to provide a minimum amount of disruption in the business area. Work will begin on Wall Street in the spring with work beginning on North Front Street this summer. An October target date for completion is anticipated.

Special

The agency will not supply any money for the renovation of the buildings, although it is paying for canopies in front of them, the planting of trees and park benches. Renovation is up to the individual merchant. Stampfle, who is manager of Penney's at 318 Wall Street in the middle of the block, said his firm plans on spending "about $3,000" on renovation of its building.

The Pike Plan was unveiled at a meeting of the Uptown Businessmen's Association in December of 1969 and met with immediate acceptance. Fred Johnston, chairman of the Historic Landmarks Preservation Commission, hailed the plan as "an example of creative imagination."

The plan will be carried out in four stages, with the east side of Wall Street first, followed by one side of North Front Street. The idea, Stampfle said, was to complete one section to show businessmen in the area what could be done.

Stampfle thinks that a Pike-type of proposal should be carried out throughout the city. "We should get as many of these as possible in preparation for the sesquicentennial in 1976," he said.

The businessmen, at their regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, also voted to contact Assemblyman H. Clark Bell to seek state permission to charge for monthly parking in the Senate Parking Lot which the association now owns. Stampfle said the association is losing money on the 90-car parking lot which is now used entirely for free parking. Insurance costs run to about $300 a year and the big snowstorm two weeks ago cost the association $253 to remove 71 truckloads of snow.

Stampfle also revealed that the businessmen's association has reached agreement with the city and the county so that their validation stickers for parking, available from some 70 merchants in the area, will be valid at both the Uptown Parking Garage and the county parking lot behind the county jail.

Both lots employ parking tickets instead of meters and charge 10 cents an hour for parking up to three hours.

Stampfle also said that the association will seek a meeting with the Traffic Committee of the Common Council to discuss the possibility of temporary traffic regulations while construction is underway on the Pike Plan on North Front Street and Wall Street this summer.

PIKE'S RENDERING OF NORTH FRONT STREET

Nixon, Chou Topic... Freedom for POWs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon talked to Chinese Premier Chou En-lai while in Peking last week about Vietnam peace prospects and possible freedom for American prisoners of war, an administration source says.

The Boston Globe identified the source as Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, the President's advisor on national security affairs. The newspaper said it had not been invited to attend the background briefing and "therefore is free to identify the source of the material."

The official was asked if Nixon and other Americans had sought the good offices of the Chinese in helping resolve Vietnam problems, including the POW question.

He replied that the Americans stated their point of view. Asked if the Chinese said nothing on the topics, the source declined to discuss the subject further.

The source suggested there will be a public announcement within two or three weeks about Chinese-American agreement on a third country where they will establish continuing diplomatic contact far short of formal state relations.

The third country, he emphasized, will not be Poland, where the American and Chinese representatives have met periodically for a number of years. There has been speculation that Canada would be the prime choice.

Actually, the official said, there is little of overwhelming significance that is likely to be accomplished immediately.

However, he emphasized, Americans expect the third-country contact point to be very active, particularly as an avenue for carrying out people-to-people exchanges in science, technology, culture, sports, and journalism which both Nixon and Chou promised to facilitate in their Sunday communique issued in Shanghai.

The third-country channel also is expected to be used to promote trade between the two nations.

U.S. Phantom Jets encounter enemy MIGs in skies over Vietnam. Story on Page 26.

The communique said the United States and China will keep in close touch through various channels. These will include occasionally sending senior U.S. representatives to Peking "for concrete consultations to further the normalization of relations between the two countries."

This was described by the official as an option for the conduct of serious business. He suggested that from time to time there may be points when further progress in breaking down 22-year-old barriers can only be accomplished by direct talks with Chou and other Peking officials.

The official, reflecting administration worry that a significant segment of the voting public might be less than enthusiastic about the Nixon-Chou Shanghai declaration, said that should take a turn for the worse—perhaps through death in the aging top leadership ranks in Peking—Nixon would have given up nothing.

The administration is particularly sensitive to domestic reaction relating to the future of Taiwan.

Syria Warns Israel

By United Press International
Syria warned Israel today that it would retaliate for every Israeli attack, no matter what the target.

The warning came in a commentary broadcast by the official Damascus radio which said "henceforth we will hit back at every aggression the Israeli enemy may wage, whether against Syrian troops or territory or against the guerrillas."

The commentary followed a Syrian air attack Wednesday against Israeli positions in the occupied Golan Heights following Israeli attacks on Syrian territory. Syria said the raids inflicted heavy casualties but Israel said the bombs fell in the open and inflicted no damage or casualties.

UPI correspondent Gerald Loughran reported from Beirut that Arab political sources considered the action significant since the Syrian air raid, the first since June 1970, places the tacit truce along the Israeli-Syrian cease-fire line in jeopardy.

An Israeli military source in Tel Aviv said today Syria launched its hit-run air attack at dusk to avoid possible "massive retaliation."

The spokesman warned that Israel would not sit idly by if Syria carried out further attacks, but gave no indication it would retaliate for the one pass Wednesday bombing run, in which Syrian MIGs penetrated three miles into Israeli air space.

In Lebanon, government troops were refusing to allow Palestinian guerrillas to return to the 40-square mile region which has been their stronghold for the past two years, and the right-wing Phalangist party called for a new agreement with the Palestinian Resistance Movement on the assistance Lebanon can give it.

Known as "Fatahland" after the guerrilla's Al Fatah organization, Lebanese army forces moved in immediately after said.

Israeli troops pulled out Monday following a four-day series of reprisal raids against the guerrillas.

Newsman who toured the area said today the few guerrillas left there were without supplies and ammunition. Army units Wednesday refused to allow guerrilla trucks filled with ammunition to enter "Fatahland," they said.

Top Trial Lawyer Raps No-Fault Plan.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A top trial lawyer says that most accident victims would lose their right to sue under a "no-fault" automobile insurance proposal and would not save on overall premiums.

Seymour Colin, president of the New York State Trial Lawyers Association, roundly assailed the proposal at a hearing Wednesday before the Joint Legislative Committee on Insurance.

But Gov. Rockefeller opened the first day's testimony urging lawyer-legislators to set aside any self-interest in lawsuit fees and enact a "no-fault" program this year.

More than half of the state's legislators are lawyers.

Colin said that more than 90 per cent of accident claims are for less than $5,000. Thus, he argued, most victims would be deprived of the right to sue under the no-fault proposal introduced by Sen. Bernard Gordon, R-Peekskill.

Gordon's proposal requires a minimum of $5,000 in bills or certain types of injuries before victims could sue for "pain and suffering."

His proposal is intended to provide basic insurance coverage without the need to sue the driver at fault. Victims would be compensated by their insurance company regardless of fault.

Governor Rockefeller's five-year projection of state expenses. Story on Page 4.

The plan would provide up to $50,000 in medical, or liability, coverage and $5,000 for property damage, except to automobiles.

Colin argued, however, that any savings realized on liability insurance would be eliminated because drivers would be forced to buy collision insurance to protect their cars.

High-priced collision insurance, he said, might also make it impossible for some persons to buy cars through banks which require such insurance on loans.

"Can an entire class—motorists whose vehicles may be damaged or destroyed—be deprived of recourse against the wrongdoer?" he asked.

Rockefeller testified, however, that a "no-fault" system is long overdue in New York. Spokesmen for two insurance groups had opposite opinions on the Gordon plan.

Roger S. Reid Jr., a spokesman for the Independent Mutual Insurance Agents of New York State, endorsed the Gordon plan with few reservations.

He said, "the projected 25 per cent saving of the Gordon bill appears to be fully realistic when applied, as intended, to the bodily injury portion of the no-fault policy."

"However," he said, "this saving should not be misconstrued as applying to the other coverages which will probably be carried by prudent drivers—we're speaking of course of such things as collision, comprehensive, out-of-state and similar coverages."

Moreover, he said, the plan should not be viewed as a guarantee of "everlasting lower insurance rates."

Later, the plan was attacked by Alfred J. Bohlinger, a spokesman for the National Association of Independent Insurers, an organization that he said handles about one quarter of the state's auto insurance.

Bohlinger, a former state insurance superintendent, also advised against optimistic views of savings. And he criticized the limitations on law suits.

The plan "could be ruinous to the insurance companies," he said because of profit restrictions and the requirement that policy holders be guaranteed renewals for three years.

Gordon, Senate Insurance Committee chairman, is conducting three days of hearings at Chancellor's Hall in the State Education Department building, Albany.

Five Seized in Gambling Raid, Records, Money, Confiscated

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON

Authorities claim they have dealt a big blow to the illegal gambling business in this city with arrest Wednesday night of three men and two women.

Those arrested were Peter Caprotti, 52, of Ulster Landing, Kingston, who was cited for promoting gambling second degree and possession of gambling records first degree; John Michael Carpio, 66 of 190 Hurley Avenue; John Patrick Carpio, his son, of 320 Albany Avenue; Agnes Elgo, 43 and Lorraine Perry, 37, both of 39 Josephine Avenue, all charged with promoting gambling first degree and possessing gambling records, felonies.

Police seized stacks of gambling records and confiscated cash totaling $4,212.04. The crackdown climaxed an intensive two-month investigation by State Police with the cooperation of Kingston police officials and Ulster County District Attorney Francis J. Vogt.

The probe was conducted under the direction of Captain F.G. Dirschka of Troop F State Police headquarters in Middletown.

The five defendants appeared today before City Judge Hubert A. Richter. Pleas of innocent were entered and bail of $500 was posted for each of the accused. Preliminary hearing was adjourned until Tuesday, March 7.

Charles Saccoman appeared as counsel for Caprotti and the two women. Francis Martocci was attorney for the Carpinos.

Troopers arrested the Carpinos at the Albany Avenue address. The two women were taken in custody at their homes, and Caprotti was picked up on a city street, not identified by authorities.

A State Police spokesman said the investigation was launched after the holidays by men from that department in conjunction with city police under the direction of Chief Julius Glassman and the district attorney.

Records seized by police were undergoing close examination. It was understood the investigation will be continued.

The arrests in the city were the first involving gambling since last summer when authorities conducted a series of raids and took several men and women in custody.

SPRING FEVER—Brenda Moske, 13, of Hellerstown, Pa., takes advantage of fair weather that sent temperatures soaring Wednesday in the northeast. Although New York City's high of 73 was 10 degrees over the previous record, the 61 recorded in Kingston failed to top the 66 degrees, reached in 1954. The weather bureau said that a cold front was pushing eastward behind the fair weather. Cooler temperatures are expected. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Convicted in Yablonski Murder

Gilly Jury May Impose Death Penalty

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UPI)—The jury that Wednesday night convicted Paul Gilly, 38, of first degree murder in the slaying of mine union leader Joseph A. Joe "k" Yablonski deliberated today on whether to sentence the former Cleveland house painter to death.

Just before midnight, Special Prosecutor Richard A. Sprague reminded the jury of five men and seven women that they swore earlier in the trial they would impose the death penalty if first degree murder were proven.

He said the slayings of Yablonski, his wife and daughter, Dec. 31, 1969, warranted a penalty of death in the electric chair in view of the jury verdict of guilty on all three counts of first degree murder.

Then he gestured at Yablonski's two attorney sons, Joseph and Kenneth, who were sitting in the courtroom.

"There sit two sons whose father, mother and sister were wiped off the face of the earth because of this defendant over there," Sprague said. "What kind of case would be a proper case for the death penalty if this isn't? One in which five or six people get bumped off?"

Samuel L. Rogers, attorney for Gilly, urged the jury "not to add another notch to the gun of the great special prosecutor from Philadelphia."

"Some day we've got to sit back and say there has been enough blood spilled in Washington County," he said.

The jury deliberated for 4 hours and 45 minutes before convicting Gilly. They deliberated another 90 minutes on the penalty before being sent back to their hotel by Judge Charles G. Sweet.

By contrast, the jury in the November trial of Aubran W. "Buddy" Marin, 23, accused with Gilly in the murders, took 72 minutes to convict him and 40 minutes to impose the death penalty.

Claude Vealey, 28, Cleveland, pleaded guilty to the slayings in June and testified in the two trials. Yet to stand trial are Gilly's wife and father-in-law. Gilly and his wife are accused of administering the $5,200 murder fund split by Gilly, Vealey and Martin.

British Troops Kill Two Boys

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—British troops killed two teen-age boys who opened fire on them from a red panel truck parked in a darkened street Wednesday, the army said today. The truck was found later parked outside a Belfast hospital with the two bodies inside.

Police identified the victims as John Mahon, 19, and Michael Connors, 14.

An army spokesman said soldiers on patrol with Belfast police in the city's dock area came upon the red panel-truck parked in a darkened side street. One policeman, hand on his holstered pistol, approached the vehicle to investigate.

"He opened the door and found these two laddies in there," the spokesman said. "He told them to get out. But

French Custom Agents In Massive Drug Haul

PARIS (AP) — The French Finance Ministry today said customs agents have seized 937 pounds of pure heroin aboard a ship at Marseille. The ministry said it was the biggest drug haul in history.

The announcement said the ship Caprice des Temps was boarded Feb. 29 and a search was started. The drug was found this morning.

Sources at the Finance Ministry said government agents became suspicious when Marcel Boucan, 57-year-old former captain of a ship known to have been engaged in cigarette smuggling, bought the Caprice des Temps, a 60-ton shrimp boat, although he had no experience in fishing.

They set a watch on the Caprice.

When she left Villefranche, on the French Riviera, Tuesday night, two customs speedboats overtook her and fired warning shots across her bow when she wouldn't stop.

Agents boarded the ship and took it to Marseille for the search.

The first search turned up nothing suspicious, but it was apparent the boat had undergone considerable repairs and changes. Examination was made of the empty spaces under the tanks for storing the fish catch and the concrete covers of the hold were given a close examination.

The drug was found in watertight sacks embedded in the cement.

Police from the drug brigade are trying now to locate the source of the heroin.

SENIOR COFFEE HOUR — Among those attending the Marist College Senior Citizen's Coffee Hour, given in their honor by Dr. Linus R. Foy, president of Marist College were (L) Dr. Foy, Steven Synan, a student at Marist College, Mrs. Catherine Gardner, Mrs. Emily Koloski and Mrs. Len Ghee. The senior citizens are among the 23 enrolled at Marist College in various courses at no tuition cost.

Senior Citizens Attend Marist College Classes

POUGHKEEPSIE community a great and rewarding opportunity. Mrs. Irving Rauch of Rhinebeck regarded it as "a magnificent opportunity" and found it easy to get along with the youngsters.

She and her husband, retired, were two of more than 20 senior citizens who have been attending classes at Marist College, free of charge, which began this spring semester.

"God bless whoever thought this up for us," exclaimed Mrs. Helen Hane, another of the "new" students. "They've just taken me in and made me a part of them."

The program was a new educational experience for these area residents, ranging in age from 65 to 88 years.

According to the head of development John J. Dougherty, it all came about when a motion was raised to give the "forgotten members of the community a great and rewarding opportunity."

This motion, originating in the Administrative Council and voted upon by the Board of Trustees, was initiated for this spring semester.

A story was placed in local papers, according to Marist Registrar Brother John King, "and qualifying candidates, which simply meant they be at least 65 years of age, were chosen accordingly."

Some of the normal prerequisites for registering, including transcripts and large sums of money, made it impossible for the deserving senior citizens to ever receive the chance of experiencing higher education and have been dropped.

Once registration is completed by regular fulltime students, the older students are allowed to pick from the courses where capacity has not been reached. They may take as many courses as they desire.

Mrs. Helen Lozier, a retired nurse taking art, expressed her grateful feelings. "I really think it's a great opportunity for us as senior citizens. There's such a great atmosphere at Marist and the students are just wonderful to be in class with. I only wish I had as much to give to them as they have given to me."

Special

Examinations are optional and up to the senior citizens themselves. No credits are received and they are not forced to take part in the course, but it is "greatly desired that they do," said Brother King.

The Rauches of Rhinebeck, married more than 45 years, were enthused about the program and were jointly registered in anthropology and philosophy.

Unfortunately, Mrs. Rauch had to withdraw because of an extreme allergy to cigarette smoke in the classrooms, but she noted that they were "filled with enthusiasm from the program."

Salvatore LoDato, instructor of the mandolin for many years, is now taking music at Marist and said, "I've loved music all my life; only a couple of sessions in this course have allowed me to view it in a way I have never seen music before in my life."

And one of LoDato's students, Henry Wandel, is also registered in the same music course. Wandel noted, "I've had a music project dormant in my mind for the last 18 to 20 years and...it is beginning to come to the surface."

This new experience has also aroused in many of the senior citizens a new enjoyment and personal satisfaction, as is apparent with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heimler, jointly registered in art.

As he explained it, "I can already feel the greater enjoyment of my surroundings. In the past few weeks I have become a much happier man and am also extremely grateful to Marist College."

Dougherty said that right now the program is basically experimental. He expects that Marist President, Dr. Linus R. Foy, will call for a reevaluation one year from now to discuss the future plans of the new system.

One of the senior citizens summed it up by quoting a song title from his younger days which goes "This Could Be The Start of Something Big."

Unless there are more applicants than openings and additional funds would have to be forthcoming. But for now, it is indeed something big for many who had missed the stimulation of being involved.

Testimonial Dinner Set For Fire Chief Brett

KINGSTON Fire Chief James M. Brett, who officially retires on March 14 after more than 34 years service with the Kingston Fire Department, will be honored at a testimonial dinner April 22 at the Walnut Grove on Field Court.

Chief Brett notified the Board of Fire Commissioners of his retirement at the board's February regular meeting. Fire Fighter Dennis Lenahan is chairman of the dinner.

Chief's Brett's retirement testimonial, unlike other testimonials for retired fire department personnel, is not being sponsored by Local 441 of the Uniformed Fire Fighters Association. However, many firemen are serving with Lenahan on the dinner for Chief Brett.

Retirement dinners for the two deputy chiefs who retired with Brett, Glyn Southard and Harry Sills, for Fire Fighter Albert Hutton Sr., will be held later in the year, a spokesman for Local 441 told The Freeman.

A large turnout is expected for the Brett testimonial as invitations have been forwarded to fire companies in Kingston and throughout Ulster County in addition to numerous public officials.

Brett was highly regarded in his profession as an innovator and a tactician. He began his firemanic career in 1932 as a member of the old Twaalfskil (volunteer) Hose Company. Appointed to the paid department on Aug. 1, 1938, he worked out of Wiltwyck Station where he was promoted to captain on Feb. 1, 1942.

Returning from Army Air Corps service in World War II, Brett was promoted to deputy chief in 1947. He became chief of the department on July 1, 1955.

Rockefeller's Projected Five-Year Budget

State Expenses Seen Reaching $10.2 Billion by '76

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Governor Rockefeller's first five-year projection of state expenditures has shown that New York's budget will hit $10.2 billion by 1976 if spending continues at current levels.

Rockefeller sent his first five-year plan to the legislature Wednesday. The new long-range fiscal planning concept was adopted by the lawmakers at the special session the first week of this year.

The five-year plan idea has long been advocated by State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, but until now scoffed at by the Rockefeller administration.

State budget experts caution that the spending projections are subject to fluctuations in the economy. The estimates were based on no major new programs, no pay raises for state workers, no increase in school aid and no additional state taxes.

"The plan is based on existing law and existing needs," Budget Director Richard L. Dunham said. "This does not mean that this will be the budget, but that this is the base from which we must start."

The five-year plan showed that current state income will not provide any funds for increased state spending during the next three years. Thus, if major new programs are launched, or such things as increased school aid is approved, it will require either new taxes or cuts in existing programs. The spending programs showed that by the 1975-76 fiscal year there will be $90 million for new programs, and the following year $250 million.

The Rockefeller plan showed that the requested budget for the coming fiscal year, which the governor sent to the legislature in January, was $7.9 billion. For the following four years, the governor estimated:

1973-74—$8.75 billion
1974-75—$9.26 billion
1975-76—$9.715 billion
1976-77—$10.19 billion.

The five-year plan includes an increase in $400 million in additional federal aid beginning in the new year starting in April and continuing through 1976. "During the state fiscal years covered by this projection, expenditures are projected to increase by a minimum of $2.3 billion, or almost 30 per cent," the report said. "This is exclusive of improvements in state aid programs: program enrichment except that which results from the opening of new facilities presently under construction; general salary increases or benefit improvements for state employees."

Meanwhile, pressure politics burst onto the Assembly floor when a Republican legislator tried to get a bill out of committee so the house could debate it.

Assemblyman Ed Kinsella of Solvay failed by only five votes Wednesday to get the bill—to repeal the state sales tax on sales of prepared food of less than $1—out of the Ways and Means Committee.

Obviously disgusted, Kinsella later told newsmen he doubted if he would try again to dislodge the bill and get it to the floor for a vote.

"Of course there was pressure," he said. Some members had promised to vote for his motion, but when their names were called they either voted no or were out of the chamber, Kinsella said.

He said Republican leaders apparently had held some conferences after he filed a notice that he intended to try to get the committee to loosen its grip on his bill.

Asked if he knew what went on in the conferences, the first-term assemblyman replied, "I don't know. I wasn't in on them."

It is rare for a legislator to try to get a bill out of committee with this procedure, and it's even more rare for the effort to succeed. By its very nature—of rubbing against the grain—the maneuver is used only by those who don't mind a head-on clash with the leadership.

There was no discussion on Kinsella's motion, just a roll call vote. And after the vote, several members said they had been out of the chamber, but would have voted for it.

Then Kinsella and the Republican chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, Willis H. Stephens of Brewster, got into a shouting match over the way Kinsella went about his maneuver.

"I think it is best that the record show that there never was a request to the committee for this bill," Stephens said.

Kinsella shouted back, "I went to Mr. Stephens' office to discuss the bill. I was told that he was out, and I was referred to a fiscal expert who said the governor wouldn't stand for it."

"I said I didn't give a damn—that I don't take orders from the governor," Kinsella said.

Stephens said Kinsella had had plenty of chances to talk with him about the bill.

"Why, how many times this afternoon have I walked past your desk? Don't you ever say that I'm not available," Stephens said.

After the session, several Democrats clapped Kinsella on the shoulder and congratulated him for trying to bring up the bill.

A couple were heard giving him advice on how to improve his chances of getting his motion approved.

One method that was suggested would involve a parliamentary maneuver to require all members to be present before the vote was taken.

Unsettled Pay Raises Still in Board's Hands

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of individual pay raises are being held up in a tangle of red tape at the Pay Board, which says the situation will get better, sometime.

Despite streamlined procedures initiated Jan. 20, the board said Wednesday its backlog of unsettled cases has nearly tripled from about 800 then to 2,219 as of Feb. 25.

Although there was no count of the total number of workers involved, 320 of the pending wage settlements cover more than 5,000 workers each and must be cleared by the board before taking effect.

Executive director Robert Tiernan said in an interview that additional steps are being taken by the board to reduce the growing pile of pending cases.

He said Internal Revenue Service agents are being schooled at special three-day seminars to begin taking over initial handling of cases involving fewer than 1,000 workers, which account for about two-thirds of the backlog, or 1,341 cases.

In line with this, the board's first complete manual of pay regulations is being published this week as an aid to IRS pay specialists.

In addition, Tiernan said, the board's own 130-man staff soon will be able to devote more time to clearing up the load of larger cases.

Right now most of its attention is occupied by settlements covering West Coast dock workers and Ohio state-government employees, he said.

Tiernan said that, despite the swelling backlog, he does not plan to ask for a larger staff unless he has to.

So far this year the staff has been occupied primarily with the board's major decisions on railroad men and aerospace workers and with the task of rewriting pay regulations to conform with the economic controls law Congress passed last December.

Matters have been delayed further by these revisions in board regulations, which may not take effect for weeks yet. Although the board in recent weeks has announced policy decisions on merit pay, fringe benefits and deferred pay raises, none has been published.

Each must be reduced to legal language by staff lawyers, cleared by a board subcommittee, reviewed by the Cost of Living Council, Internal Revenue Service and the Justice Department, and subjected to 10 days of public comment after being published in the Federal Register.

And things could get worse before they improve.

It took weeks for the board to issue forms for requesting approval of pay increases. Thanks to the revised policies, the forms now must be changed, requiring many of the cases to be sent back for more information.

"That's going to screw up the system again," Tiernan said.

Post Office Announces 3rd Class Mail Hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Postal Service announced Wednesday temporary rates on some third class mail will be raised March 12. The major change will be a new higher five-cent minimum per piece charge applying principally to advertising circulars.

The new third class bulk postage rates for certain groups authorized to mail at reduced rates as nonprofit organizations, are not affected by the announced increase, said the service.

The increase announcement comes at the heels of a successful appeal by the Postal Service from a Jan. 17 U.S. District Court judgment that denied the Postal Service authority to put a temporary third class increase into effect Jan. 24 as it had planned.

The pending increases will affect certain third class mail categories:

—Regular bulk rate for circulars: goes up to 28 cents a pound from the current 23 cent charge or a five-cent minimum per piece charge, whichever is higher.

—Regular bulk rates for books and catalogs: Will increase to 21 cents a pound from the current 17 cent charge and a minimum five cents per piece charge, whichever is higher.

—Single piece third class rate (used largely for small parcels and printed matter): Will be raised for mail pieces weighing more than three ounces. Increases will range from one to nine cents above current charges, depending upon weight.

A present single piece rate of eight cents for the first 2 ounces and 2 cents for a third ounce will continue to apply for mail pieces weighing up to three ounces.

Legislators to Vote on Tumor Clinic Leasing

The Ulster County Legislature's Public Health Committee will give consideration to allowing the City of Kingston Laboratory to lease non-X-ray areas of the Ulster County Tumor Clinic Building in addition to leasing the X-ray area of the building to the Kingston Hospital.

The shared-space concept evolved out of a public hearing on a local law Wednesday night calling only for leasing to Kingston Hospital of the Ulster County Tumor Clinic Building presently used in the operation of the Tumor Clinic by the hospital.

The local law will be acted upon at the Thursday, March 9 meeting of the Legislature in the County Office Building. A number of views were expressed at the hearing with Dr. Herman Derman, director of the City Laboratory, requesting that the Local Law be amended to include leasing the non-X-ray areas to the Lab. The Local Law will be presented to the Legislature in its present form however but Melvin Mones (R-City), chairman of the Public Health Committee said that his committee "will give equal consideration" for use of any extra space in the future.

Anthony R. Triulzi, administrator of the Kingston Hospital explained that the hospital has been performing therapeutic services since it took over the clinic Jan. 1 after state funds for its operation ceased. The state indicated that it was not interested in funding the municipal clinic and preferred that it be hospital-based and consequently eligible for the installation of a cobalt machine. Triulzi also indicated that the hospital needs more space in the clinic building than it is presently using.

Derman said the lab asks only to be treated equally by the County Legislature. "The $20,110 to provide basic services, remainder of the ground floor and the first floor of the Tumor Clinic Building are needed by the City of Kingston Laboratory," he said, "to grow with our growing population and hospitals."

County Legislator Clarence Raichle (R-City), a consistent opponent of leasing the clinic to the hospital, pointed out that the 1972 county budget provided no appropriation for the clinic. "I suspect," he said "That there was no appropriation in the Mental Health Center budget to provide maintenance previously in the Tumor Clinic budget. (The Mental Health Center is also in the same building). This suggests to me that the county expects to be treated equally by the Kingston Hospital to put up the $20,110 to provide basic services, remainder of the ground floor and the first floor of the Tumor Clinic Building are needed by the City of Kingston Laboratory," he said, "to grow with our growing population and hospitals."

County Legislator Clarence Raichle (R-City), a consistent

the ground floor covering 272 square feet. The first floor contains 4,165 square feet, 11 rooms and a booth area. The booth area is used at the most four hours per week on Thursdays. It would be perfectly legitimate for the entire first floor to be leased to the Board of Managers who I am sure would be pleased to make the Law calls for the leasing of the portions of the Ulster County Tumor Clinic building presently used in the operation of the Ulster County Tumor Clinic. It is a sound posture to approve the lease of the x-ray suite which is needed to treat cancer patients. The remainder of the ground and first floors are not legitimately part of cancer treatment. The municipally owned Laboratory should be offered this space on the same favorable terms to be extended to Kingston Hospital. . . . Continuation of the treatment of tumor clinic patients and provision of space to the Laboratory are not conflicting events. There is more than enough room to do both at the same time.

Continuation of the treatment of tumor clinic patients and provision of space to the Laboratory are not conflicting events. There is more than enough room to do both at the same time.

Lawmakers to Consider Pricing

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — Proposals for unit pricing, increased pay for Ulster County jurors, bi-monthly meetings between students and legislators and the purchase of the former right-of-way of the railroad in Wawarsing are to be considered at the Thursday, March 9 meeting of the Legislature in the County Office Building. The county board will also act on the Local Law calling for the leasing of the Ulster County Tumor Clinic to Kingston Hospital.

Unit pricing is being called for by Legislator Louis M. Klein (D-Dist. 7) who asks that the county undertake a comprehensive study to determine if the system would be in the best interest of the people of the county.

Legislators Lewis C. Kirschner (D-Dist. 7) and James J. Carroll (D-City) are requesting that all grand jurors, trial jurors and court attendants receive an increase of one dollar per day or a daily remuneration of $9.50 beginning April 1. They contend that the raise is necessary due to the steady increase in the cost of living and because of the many hours of dedication devoted to our county.

The request for bi-monthly meetings of the Ulster County Legislature and Youth-In-Government legislators stems from an original suggestion made by the students at a recent meeting of the two boards. The resolution to come before the Legislature is being sponsored by the Recreation and Youth Committee and its chairman S.

Robert Keider (R-Dist. 2). The measure authorizing the purchase of the former right-of-way of the Ontario and Western Railroad in the Town of Wawarsing is proposed by Legislators George Barthel (D-Dist. 10) and Alex J. Nirenberg (D-Dist. 10) due to the delayed realignment of Rt. 209 which was planned to follow the right-of-way. They suggest that the area could now serve as a bridge path, hiking trail, snowmobile trail or for hunting and fishing purposes.

Aug. 11, 12 and 13 has been set for the date of the Ulster County Fair, according to Philip Davis (R-Dist. 11), chairman of the Extension Committee, who requested the county to appropriate $334 as its share of the cost of publishing a twice yearly Ulster County Planning Newsletter. The balance of the $2,000 cost would be paid by the state and federal government.

There are several resolutions calling for state legislation concerning the Social Welfare law and providing legislation by petition.

Among appointments expected to be made are the following: Theodore Musal of Tilton to the Ulster County Planning Board, John G. Reynolds to a six year term as director of the Real Property Tax Service Agency and Arthur Kurtz for a three year term as a representative of the Farm Bureau to the Ulster County Soil and Water Conservation District.

TUMOR CLINIC — Among the legislators present at Wednesday night's public hearing on a local law authorizing the leasing of portions of the Ulster County Tumor Clinic Building to Kingston Hospital were left: Douglas V. Dye (R-Dist. 2),

Show Cause Order Issued In Ellenville Police Case

ELLENVILLE — As Ellenville village and police officials prepare for departmental hearings in the case of suspended, Ellenville patrolmen Carl B. Mayer, Ronald K. Krom and Anthony Yerkes, a State Supreme Court show-cause order was filed Wednesday against the village, demanding more specific be issued against Mayer and Yerkes.

The village plans to fight the order, answerable in Kingston on Friday. It was signed by Justice, George L. Cobb on behalf of Mayer and Yerkes.

Mayer and Krom were suspended from the department on Feb. 7 after they were arrested for allegedly raping 16-year-old Deborah Decker of Ellenville. The charges were tossed out of court a week later as Acting Village Justice Joseph Friedman cited lack of evidence.

Yerkes was suspended, however the charge against him has never been disclosed. A fourth policeman, Detective Charles Freer, has been indicted by the Ulster County Grand Jury for endangering the morals of a minor, allegedly involving the taking of nude photographs of Miss Decker.

Mayer, Yerkes and Krom were served with papers last week charging them with incompetence and misconduct. Under the existing civil service law the charges, if upheld, could lead to the firing of the civil service employees.

It was noted that specific details of the charges against Mayer and Yerkes have never been made public.

Meanwhile, Ellenville Village officials continue to make plans for departmental hearings involving Mayer, Yerkes and Krom on March 6, 7 and 8. Apparently the hearings will be open to the area press representatives but not the public.

Senior Citizens are due for additional consideration with two resolutions filed in their behalf by Legislator Raymond Arnater (R-City), chairman of the Program for the Aging Committee and Legislator Douglas V. Dye (R-Dist. 2) and Richard Nace (R-Dist. 2).

They call for the chairman of the Legislature, Peter J. Savago to apply to the State Education Department for certification of a recreation for the elderly program and to enter into a contract with the Ulster County Senior Citizens Alliance, Inc., for the operation of the program.

They also call for the appointment of an advisory committee for education-recreation programs for the elderly.

The Public Dole

When the concept of public assistance was bluntly termed "relief," it was a concept that was true to its literal definition. Specifically, relief was a dole from the commonwealth to at least assure the extremely indigent of a modicum of clothes on their backs, some sort of roof over their heads and food on their tables. The broader and more humane concept of welfare evolved in this country after World War II, possibly adhering to the concept that man does not live by bread alone, and sought to upgrade the lot of the disadvantaged by broadening the scope of what are termed the necessities of life.

It was an honorable and humane philosophy of life—a desire by the wealthiest country in the world to upgrade the lifestyle of its more unfortunate citizens. But as is so often the case involving lofty principles, they became mired in the mud of human greed and slothfulness.

This was indeed exemplified at the Hurley Town Board meeting that took place earlier this week. Supervisor George Schroeder presented a dismaying picture of the modern-day freeloader who is perfectly willing to accept public handouts rather than doing a day's work. He referred specifically to those applicants in his town who were young and able to work but chose the welfare alternative instead.

Schroeder's stand was that he would rather resign as supervisor than place his town in debt by supporting this unproductive group. Douglas Dye, chairman of the Legislature's Social Service Committee, issued some alarming figures of his own at the meeting, stating that welfare applicants between the ages of 20 and 30 outnumbered any other age group.

Dye went on to say that the county's welfare system was in need of a major overhaul and that a close check of the validity of welfare claims was even now in the works.

Let's trust that that is so; and let's further trust that some of our young parasites realize that public handouts do not constitute a way of life, even though they do constitute a slap at the establishment which supports them.

Secondary Schooling

Believing that secondary schooling is a neglected part of education today, Theodore R. Sizer has resigned as dean of the Harvard University's School of Education to take the job of headmaster of the nation's oldest incorporated school for boys, Phillips Andover Academy in Massachusetts. At 39, Sizer had served Harvard for eight years. He takes both youth and experience to his new job. He succeeds John M. Kemper, who died last December after heading the 194-year-old private school for 23 years.

"There is a lot of concern about little children and the universities," Sizer said, "but this terribly important group in the middle is surprisingly unchallenged. Few people are questioning the developmental psychology of that age group. It's incredibly tradition-bound.

Andover has about 900 students. Eight have been expelled this year, some for drug use. The other day students filing into the dining hall found no silverware. It turned up later on the roof. Hijinks are a part of private school life and are tolerated.

But the new headmaster is thinking of more basic matters. From the vantage point of his present position, he has seen the results of the neglect of the high school years in the country. If he has some remedies for them, they will benefit secondary education generally. Perhaps the oldest academy can become a laboratory for high schools everywhere.

Jack Anderson Says

More ITT Chicanery Revealed

WASHINGTON — We have now established that Attorney General-designate Richard Kleindienst told an outright lie about the Justice Department's sudden out-of-court settlement of the Nixon Administration's biggest anti-trust case.

The case involved the International Telephone and Telegraph conglomerate, which appeared on the way to a Supreme Court showdown with the Justice Department over ITT's takeover of the huge Hartford Fire Insurance Company.

Last July, however, the case was abruptly settled. The terms, considered highly favorable to ITT, were announced at the same time ITT secretly pledged up to $400,000 to support the Republican convention in San Diego this year. A check for $100,000 has already been written.

Denying any connection between the convention cash and the antitrust settlement, Kleindienst insisted that the Justice Department's anti-trust staff had been free from any political pressure from above.

The settlement between the Department of Justice and ITT was handled and negotiated exclusively by Assistant Attorney General Richard W. McLaren (then head of the anti-trust division), Kleindienst said in a letter to Democratic National Chairman Larry O'Brien. However, we have now learned that Kleindienst himself held roughly a half-dozen secret meetings on the ITT case with a director of the company before the settlement was reached.

The director, Wall Street financier Felix Rohatyn, conceded to us that he met in private with Kleindienst, who was then Deputy Attorney General, at the same time McLaren was negotiating with ITT's lawyers.

"I was supposed to make the case on the economic side of it," Rohatyn told his associate Brit Hume. He said he particularly stressed to Kleindienst ITT's arguments for keeping Hartford Fire.

Kleindienst's duplicity is further evidence that the Administration has much to hide in the ITT affair, which looks more suspicious the more we investigate it.

Not only Kleindienst, but his boss, outgoing Attorney General John Mitchell, has now been linked to the settlement. Mitchell had officially disqualified himself from the case because of an old relationship with ITT. Yet Dita Beard, the company's top lobbyist, has now acknowledged that she arranged the settlement with Mitchell in a private conversation at the governor's mansion in Kentucky after last year's Kentucky Derby.

Her confession came after we obtained an extraordinary confidential memo, written by her, from ITT's files. The memo suggested strongly that the settlement was made in exchange for ITT's pledge of cash support for the Republican convention.

Mrs. Beard also told us that the day after we confronted her with the memo, ITT security men from New York shredded many of her office files because they feared the papers might be subpoenaed when the memo became public.

Mitchell would not discuss the matter with us. John Hushen, a Justice Department spokesman, told us there was "no truth" to Mrs. Beard's story. He acknowledged, however, that Mitchell had spoken to Mrs. Beard at the governor's mansion.

We gave Hushen specific questions to ask the Attorney General. But four hours later, after conferring with Mitchell, he called us back without the answers.

Instead, he urged that we withhold our story on Mrs. Beard's version of events until, as Hushen put it, "we get all our ducks in a row." He said Mitchell would "prove" the falsehood of Mrs. Beard's incriminating memo, but three days later, no proof had appeared.

Big Republican Names
The June 25, 1971, memo is studded with such big Republican names as President Nixon, Mitchell, California Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, San Diego Congressman Bob Wilson, White House aide Bob Haldeman and H.S. (Hal) Genseen, ITT's president.

It is addressed to W. R. (Bill) Merriam, manager of ITT's Washington office. "I thought you and I had agreed very thoroughly that under no circumstances would anyone in this office discuss with anyone our participation in the convention, including me," Mrs. Beard wrote.

"Other than permitting John Mitchell, Ed Reinecke, Bob Haldeman and Nixon (besides Wilson, of course) no one has known from whom that 400 thousand commitment had come... John Mitchell has certainly kept it on the higher level only, we should be able to do the same...."

"I am convinced, because of several conversations with Louis (Nunn) re Mitchell that our noble commitment has gone a long way toward our negotiations on the mergers eventually coming out as Hal (Genseen) wants them. Certainly the President has told Mitchell to see that things are worked out fairly. It is still only McLaren's mickeymouse we are suffering...."

"If (the convention cash) gets too much publicity you can believe our negotiations with Justice will wind up shot down. Mitchell is definitely helping us, but cannot let it be known. Please destroy this, huh?"

The Trip Analyzed

WASHINGTON — No matter how carefully the world reads the formal words of the communique issued by Red China and the United States after President Nixon's visit to mainland China, there is little inkling derived as to what the future really holds in store. The United States government has made some broad statements of principle and so has the Peking government, but over-all the sole objective thus far attained is to reveal the two countries as desirous of working together to achieve peace in Asia.

But the comments show that what is going on hasn't been fully understood in some of the countries, especially Taiwan. For the United States refrained from all pledges of future military help, though it has gone on record in the past in favor of assistance to Taiwan. One theory advanced is that it is the purpose of the United States to discourage the major powers from becoming entangled in the internal affairs of or revolutions in the smaller countries and thus gaining an influence, if not domination, over the government that was set up.

If the Soviet Union and Red China didn't interfere with any of the nations which seek the right of self-determination, the chances are there might be a few more small wars. But, on the other hand, there wouldn't be any conflicts between the big powers.

The United States is being criticized for seeming to run out on Taiwan. But actually it has disclosed an intention to try to persuade other governments to keep out of the quarrels that may occur. The United States is planning in the not-far-distant future to pull out all its troops from Vietnam, and it hopes that neither Red China nor the Soviet Union will, for their part, supply military aid to the countries of Indo-China. Although there is criticism from promising ultimately to withdraw all American forces and military installations from Taiwan, undoubtedly this was done in the expectation that other nations would take similar steps in all areas of Asia.

For President Nixon was talking to Premier Chou En-Lai about the doctrines of peace and how the major powers could help to bring about an era of order and prosperity on the continent. Mr. Nixon wanted to make clear that the United States is planning soon to withdraw all its ground forces from Asia and would depend on its naval vessels for military protection. Doubtless there will be reliance on aircraft carriers and missile-carrying submarines if tensions arise again.

The hope, of course, is that the President's visit to Peking will be the start of peace parleys which will be meaningful and that Mr. Nixon's conferences in Moscow in May will deal with the distribution of military forces on the Asian continent by the Russians. Not long ago, of course, the India-Soviet Union agreement was reached, East Pakistan's rebellion was given substantial assistance by India, and the Soviets' backing of India was a factor in enabling Bangladesh to win victory.

While there are some criticisms about the President's trip by those who think he should not have decided to pull American forces out of Taiwan, the truth is this is one of the points he will use to try to bring about the removal from Asia of the military units of other countries so that peace can really be established on the continent. It is believed that some day the mainland and Taiwan will be reunited. Surely if a dispute arose at this time, the United States will not wish to participate in it. So the withdrawal of American forces would be a tactical move entirely apart from the discussions in Peking.

On the whole, the President's trip to Peking has been received with favor in Congress. Senator Mike Mansfield, the Democratic leader, spoke approvingly of it on Monday. Certainly there is no doubt that the effort to encourage Peking to join in the movement for the maintenance of peace in Asia is a historic event. It could prove to be the necessary step to end the friction that has existed on the continent of Asia.

Ray Cromley Says

Part-Timers Upset Job Balance

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A careful reading of statistics suggests President Nixon is attacking unemployment in part by methods based on outdated information.

The figures indicate that even under the best possible conditions — assuming the economy hits full tilt by December — unemployment now running at 6 per cent will still be unacceptably high.

Nixon's own economists now calculate unemployment cannot be brought down to the magic 4 per cent, or even to 4.5 or 4.7 per cent without excessive inflation — which they and most of the rest of us find unacceptable.

Here are some major details of the unemployment problem:

Almost one-fourth of today's unemployed are men and women voluntarily looking for part-time work. Fifty-three per cent of this group are students — young people 16-21 whose main occupation is going to school.

Roughly 40 per cent of those in the part-time labor force voluntarily are married women living with their husbands.

In the past decade those voluntarily looking for part-time work have increased 103 per cent. The full-time labor force (those employed full time and those looking for full-time work) by contrast has increased only 39 per cent.

It thus turns out that those voluntarily looking for part-time work now comprise 15 per cent of the civilian labor force, contrasted with 10 per cent a decade ago.

If those in the work force today working part-time voluntarily or seeking part-time work were the same percentage of today's work force as a decade ago, the nation's unemployment would be close to 5.4 per cent.

If the unemployment figures listed only the unemployed among those seeking full-time work, the unemployment rate would be around 5 per cent today.

This is not to suggest that the men and women seeking part-time employment don't need work or that they can be ignored. It is to suggest, however, that this may be a very special type of problem. It is to propose that normal economic growth as presently conceived will not provide enough jobs for the number of part-time workers without creating heavy labor shortages throughout the economy in a wide variety of fields — a situation which would inevitably result in most serious inflation.

Many part-time workers have limited mobility in the usual meaning of the word. In attending college, they are tied to the college areas except in summer, their hours are determined by their studies.

If housewives, they usually must conform to the schedules of husbands and children. They normally cannot move to another city, or work at a considerable distance away in the same city without disrupting home life.

But part-time workers are not the only specialized group among the unemployed. Another 10 to 12 per cent of the unemployed are young men and women 16-19 not going to school and looking for full-time employment.

There are other special groups — those so discouraged they are not even seeking work, the infirm and the handicapped, the aged, the severely uneducated.

Vietnam era veterans form a very special group.

It is obvious that the number of people wanting employment, and their locations, training and ability can never precisely match the available jobs — and that this disparity is sizable even in a prosperous economy.

Order Given Cosmetics Firm

By JON POWERS

ACCORD Horowitz also cited Koscot's pyramid selling in his report to the court: "The pyramid device is deceptive because the more distributorships that are sold, the more difficult it becomes for those just enrolled to recoup their investments by selling to others. The market becomes saturated with distributors, leaving those who purchased just prior to the saturation, unable to recoup their investment by selling to others."

Koscot, however, has maintained all along that it does not try to mislead or defraud prospective distributors into investing with the company. In an interview with The Freeman at the Granit recently, Larry Prossen, Koscot's divisional vice-president, emphasized that the firm has voluntarily established a limit on the number of distributorships sold in a given area, thereby assuring that the area does not become saturated with dealers.

But Koscot officials at the Granit would not defend in detail the charges leveled against the firm. Instead, they emphasized the benefits of the Koscot plan and cited numerous distributors who have become independently wealthy by selling Koscot franchises.

"All we're doing," said Correnti, "is telling the little people that they can succeed by working for themselves. There's no limit to what you can accomplish, as long as you work at it and believe in what you're doing. Our whole philosophy is that the guy who's down on his luck can pull himself up, and we're helping him to do that. If we were doing anything illegal, they would have put us out of business long ago."

Koscot's regional office moved to Accord from Pittsfield, Mass., in December. Officials gave no reason for the move, except to say, "We like this area and the ownership and personnel here (at the Granit) are close to our own philosophy."

There are no reports of Koscot distributorships in Ulster County at the present time, although Raleigh Jackson, a former IBM Kingston employee, purchased a distributorship two years ago. Prossen told The Freeman that Jackson has since been promoted "up the ranks" and is now working in an administrative capacity in Texas.

There are no legal proceedings against Koscot here. The Consumer Fraud Bureau of the Ulster County District Attorney's Office said it is "aware" of Koscot's existence in Ulster County, but that no formal investigation is contemplated. And the Chamber of Commerce of Ulster County said it has information on file regarding Koscot for prospective Koscot investors.

Following the court's ruling, Sheldon Horowitz, a Special Deputy Attorney General, was assigned to investigate and determine if Koscot had complied with the judgment. In an affidavit he signed and filed with New York County Supreme Court, Horowitz stated: "The defendants (Koscot, Dare to be Great, Inc. and Glenn Turner) have totally ignored the court judgment and have continued to engage in fraudulent and deceptive practices."

In his report, Horowitz further states that "... tactics are employed to lure persons in the $5,000 to $10,000 income bracket, the young, the gullible, the unemployed or other persons in desperate need of a source of income into believing that through the magic of multi-level sales they can become one of the top two or three per cent of the money earners in this country."

Another Postponement Looming for Jupiter

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—fourth postponement. Another attempt will be made to launch Pioneer 10 on a pathfinding, picture taking voyage to Jupiter tonight, but the weather threatened to force the launch was scheduled for a 30-minute period starting at 8:25 p.m. EST. The countdown Wednesday night was stalled five minutes before the rocket ignition when instrumented weather balloons known as jimspheres reported that winds from 15,000 to 46,000 feet above the cape were unacceptable.

This was the same problem that led to delays Sunday and Monday. Engineers feared that winds blowing at different angles and different altitudes would place unsafe stresses on the 132-foot Atlas-Centaur rocket as it climbed toward space.

The deadline for launching Pioneer 10 on its 21-month journey to Jupiter is March 13. After that, the relative positions of earth and Jupiter will place the giant outer planet out of range.

Another Pioneer is being built for launch to Jupiter when the next launch period begins in April, 1973. They are considered vital precursors to more sophisticated outer planets missions late this decade.

The farthest man has yet sent a spacecraft is to Mars, the fourth planet out from the sun. Pioneer 10 will be the first to venture out beyond Mars, through the asteroid belt to Jupiter, the largest of the nine planets.

Jupiter is 525 million miles from earth and Pioneer 10 must be accelerated to a record 31,131 miles an hour to reach the puzzling planet. A new third state has been added to the Atlas-Centaur rocket to achieve the extra velocity.

Pioneer 10 carries a camera-like device to take 10 pictures of Jupiter and possibly one of its 12 moons. The probe also carries instruments to measure the Jovian radiation environment and study the planet's colorful atmosphere.

Convicted Gambler Is Shot to Death

NEW YORK (AP) — A convicted gambler, described by police as "one of the biggest in Brooklyn," was shot to death today in a neighborhood pool room. Police called it a "rub-out."

In a separate incident, a gunman shot and critically wounded three men who were playing pool in a Bedford-Stuyvesant area social club.

Police said the gambler, Victor Licata, 37, was in a pool hall in Brooklyn's Bushwick section when two men walked in with guns drawn about 12:40 a.m.

One stationed himself by the door; the second walked up to Licata, spoke briefly to him and, police said, fired at least five times.

Licata fell dead. Police said he had been shot at such close range there were powder burns on his body. In his pockets they found $105.

Licata, who lived in Queens, had a record of 20 arrests, going back 18 years, for assault, robbery, gambling, looting and carrying a gun.

He had been convicted twice—once for assault and once for gambling.

In the second incident, about a half dozen men were inside the social club when an unidentified man wearing sunglasses walked in at 12:30 a.m. He drew a handgun, fired four times and hit three of the men.

The victims, all reported in critical condition at Kings County Hospital, were identified by police as Charles Davis, 52, hit in the chest; Daniel Brown, 24, shot in the abdomen; and Edward Reid, 20, hit in the left cheek.

The gunman fled after the shooting. Police said they had not yet established a motive for the shooting.

Collarmen Will Reveal 'New Look'

ESOPUS

The New Collarmen, the popular singing group from Mt. Saint Alphonsus in Esopus revealed their "new look" in a concert today at the Hurley Elementary School.

Due to transfers and graduations, the singing group was forced to reorganize. It now boasts four new performers.

Holdovers in the group include guitarists Paul Knapp and Art Miltenberger, drummer Sam Maranto and soundman Jeff Koch. New faces in the group belong to guitarists Pat Szklenski and Bob Gonzalez and singers Tom Gutchewsky and Jody Sinwell.

Their concert Thursday morning was sponsored by the Hurley Parents Club. The Collarmen's selections of folk, folk rock and rock music was presented to students and parents in two separate performances.

Ballet Program Scheduled

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (UPI)—The New York City Ballet will dance 26 ballets set to the music of the late Igor Stravinsky as part of its July program at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

The program here will be substantially the same as the Salute to Stravinsky the company will perform in New York's Lincoln Center in June.

Stravinsky, who died last year at the age of 89, was a close friend and collaborator of George Balanchine, director of the New York City Ballet.

The Saratoga cycle of 26 Stravinsky ballets will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of the second, third and fourth weeks of July. The first week the company will present "The Nutcracker."

N. LeVan Haver Dead at 66, Was Former District Attorney

N. LeVan Haver, 66, of 290 Pearl Street, prominent local attorney and former district attorney of Ulster County, passed away today at Albany Medical Center.

Haver began the study of law in the office of former District Attorney Frederick G. Traver, later Ulster County Judge. After studying law under then District Attorney Traver from 1922 to 1925, Haver entered Albany Law School and was graduated in 1928. Admitted to the bar in 1928, Haver became associated with the late John W. Eckert where he began practice of the law. In 1933 he became a assistant district attorney, continuing in that position until 1938. In 1939 Haver was elected Ulster County district attorney and when he took the oath of office it was County Judge Frederick G. Traver who administered the oath of office. Haver served as district attorney to 1946.

A member and former president of the Ulster County Bar Association, Haver served as a member of the executive committee of the New York State Bar Association for six years. He had been chairman of the Trial Lawyers Section of the State Bar Association and had served as special prosecutor at various times in Columbia and Albany counties.

In Columbia County he was a prominent murder case. He was widely known throughout the state as a trial lawyer, appearing in numerous cases which held wide interest. He was a fellow of American College of Trial Lawyers.

Politically, he had been prominent in Republican circles and served several years as Republican city chairman. Surviving are his widow, the former Jacquelyn E. Monroe; two daughters, Barbara wife of Robert S. Russell of Saugerties; Cynthia, wife of Frank Rigas of Pound Ridge, N. Y.; a brother, Burton L. Haver of Kingston; six grandchildren.

Funeral will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at Fair Street Reformed Church. There will be no calling hours. Burial will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery. Contributions may be made to the Cancer Fund.

Ulster Resident Sentenced

KINGSTON James Clark, 25, of Sunset Drive, Port Ewen, formerly of Staples Street, this city, was sentenced to serve one year in the Ulster County jail Wednesday after pleading guilty to criminal possession of stolen property—trading stamps.

Judge Hubert A. Richter, who imposed sentence, placed Clark on probation for three years. He was arrested on Jan. 14 by BCI Agent G. A. Grunwald of the Hurley State Police.

Authorities accused the defendant of the theft of a large quantity of trading stamps from a Grand Union Supermarket.

Part-Time Employee Indicted in Rocking Horse Ranch Blaze

KINGSTON
John Richard Lennon, 20, a former part-time employee at Rocking Horse Ranch in Clintonville, was indicted Tuesday by an Ulster County Grand Jury for attempted arson in the first degree in connection with a fire that damaged a storage building at the resort hotel complex on Oct. 24, 1971.

Lennon was arrested in November following a stakeout at the resort by State Police BCI personnel. The fire he allegedly set was one of a series that has plagued the hotel's owners during the past year. He was charged with setting a fire in a storage building near the main hotel building. Earlier that day, ranch employees had doused three fires discovered in wastepaper baskets in the main ranch building.

Lennon was one of 11 persons named in indictments handed up before Supreme Court Judge Louis Bruhn. All cases were referred to the Ulster County Court for assignment to the trial calendar for the term beginning March 8.

George B. McDonald, 32, of Germantown, was indicted for reckless endangerment and possession of a dangerous weapon after he allegedly drew a knife on another man during an altercation at the Pleasant View Hotel in the Town of Marlboro on January 8.

Charles B. Freer of Napanoch, a suspended detective of the Ellenville village police department, was indicted on two counts of endangering the welfare of a child in connection with nude photographs he allegedly took of a 16-year-old Ellenville girl.

Thomas Leonard Gray, 23, of Washington, D. C., and John H. Pierce, 31, of Philadelphia, Pa., were indicted for third degree burglary in connection with an entry at the Ulster County Historical Society at Stone Ridge on January 30.

Joseph Ruzzo, 42, of RD 3, Kingston, and Frank Szymanski, 49, of RD 2, Kingston, were indicted for second degree grand larceny for allegedly stealing $8,500 from a former New Paltz resident during August, 1971.

Four other persons, Mario Rojas, Terry Morrison, Karen Sue McKee, also known as Karen Sue Rogers, and Louis Michael Girardi, were indicted for first degree bail jumping. All were under indictment for other charges and forfeited bail.

Bought Ticket At News Shop

KINGSTON
The $5,000 winner of the New York State Lottery last week, Mrs. Catherine Schneider of 144 Hunter Street, Kingston, purchased her winning ticket at the Broadway News Shop rather than Mayone's Market as she indicated Wednesday.

Mrs. Schneider said she first found out she was $5,000 richer when she saw the winning lottery number published in The Daily Freeman.

ties, WHITA president, said at Wednesday night's monthly meeting that meetings would be arranged in the various districts where school board candidates are up for election, and that they could make arrangements for meetings by contacting her or other members of the WHITA executive board.

"Now is the time for interested candidates to come forth and make their intentions and positions known," she said.

WHITA also discussed the inaccessibility of Minnewaska Park, which was recently opened as a state park under the Palisades Park Commission. A committee was formed to make further investigation into the matter.

Also up for discussion was the various suggestions for legislative reapportionment and the intention of BOCES to purchase land although a proposal for a centralized instruction center was defeated recently, Mrs. Tipp said.

The southern committee of WHITA, recently formed in Ellenville and encompassing four towns in the southern part of the county, was well represented at the meeting and plans were made for their future activities, Mrs. Tipp said.

Unemployment Benefits On Rise

KINGSTON
Claims for unemployment benefits in Kingston took a sharp rise during February, part of it due to a new emergency extension of benefits that became effective during the month.

A spokesman at the New York

State Employment Service office said that 14,138 claims were paid during February, a weekly average of 3,289. The figure represents an increase of 2,257 over the 11,881 claims paid in January.

The new emergency extended benefits, enacted by an executive order from President Richard M. Nixon, accounted for 751 claims. The emergency extended benefits add 13 weeks to the 26 weeks of regular benefits and 13 weeks of extended benefits already in existence.

New claims for regular benefits filed during February totaled 1,225, down from 1,752 in January.

Two Injured In Accidents

WOODSTOCK
Two women were injured in separate traffic accidents that were investigated by area authorities.

Woodstock police reported Priscella Glennon, 25, of Water town, Mass., and Schultz Corners, this township, was driving her car along Route 212 at 1 a. m. today when the vehicle went out of control and hit a tree. The driver was taken to Benedictine Hospital in Kingston by Doctor's Ambulance and treated for injuries of the head and chest.

Patrolman Warren Graver investigated.

Hurley State Police said Helen Mayer, 45, of Leggs Mills Road, Lake Katrine, was driving a car west on Route 209 in the vicinity of Sawkill Road at 7:25 p. m. Wednesday, when she lost control of the vehicle. The car swerved into the center mall and overturned.

A report of Trooper Edward Collins noted the driver complained of head pains.

Seek Bids For Mail Post Office

KINGSTON
Kingston Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk is soliciting bids to operate a contract branch of the Kingston Post Office in the Ulster Mall area.

Bids will be accepted until March 22 to operate the branch office from April 1 to June 30, 1972. The contract is then renewable for three years if performance is satisfactory.

The bidder is required to furnish 200 square feet of space, heat, electricity, a safe, and a flagpole, and must furnish all labor necessary to operate the branch from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a. m. until noon Saturday. The office will not be required to be open on nine holidays during the year. Only postal money orders will be sold during business hours.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a $3,000 bond. Personal bonds will not be accepted.

Bid forms will be supplied to anyone who calls or visits the postmaster's office.

Area Youth To Appear

ELLENVILLE
A 17-year-old youth is scheduled to appear before Village Judge Joseph Friedman on March 7 to face a charge of burglary third degree, according to police.

William Rashevich of Lackawack was arrested by Detective Sergeant George Sheeley following investigation of a burglary reported at Route 209 Bob's Auto Sales during which a CB set was taken from the building.

The youth was released in custody of his father pending disposition of the charge.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a $3,000 bond. Personal bonds will not be accepted.

Bid forms will be supplied to anyone who calls or visits the postmaster's office.

Century Club Sets Meeting

NEW PALTZ
The XX Century Club will meet with Dr. Gilbert Brenner, who has recently returned from a year in Jerusalem, at 7:30 p. m. March 5 in the Fireside Room of the Reformed Church in New Paltz.

The program will be a slide presentation of historic and cultural sites of Israel, both modern and biblical, with special emphasis on Jerusalem.

Mrs. Ronald Babb and Miss Ruth Jones will act as hostesses for the evening.

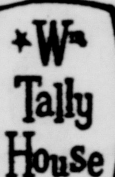

The Other Day

Michael Leopold

Talking about coincidences we heard this one was reported in the Watchman-Examiner: The lady's big Labrador dog refused to accompany her from the supermarket, so she hooked her dress belt around his neck and dragged him into the car. At home the dog sulked and refused to obey any command. While they debated whether or not to take him to a veterinarian, a friend telephoned. "Hey," asked the friend, "did you know your big Labrador is still down at the supermarket?" Well, here with us is your top satisfaction and terrific value... come and get it!

Roe Honored

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA. U.S. Air Force Senior Master Sergeant William W. Roe of Highland, N.Y., has been named the Senior Noncommissioned Officer of the Year for 1971 at Tinker AFB, Okla.

Sergeant Roe, son of Mrs. Mary M. Roe, Rt. 9 West, Highland, distinguished himself as a maintenance control superintendent with the 3rd Mobile Communications Group, headquartered at Tinker.

Sgt. Roe received his plaque in a presentation made by Col. George W. Bennett, base commander at Tinker Air Force Base.

The sergeant was cited for professionalism, military bearing and conduct and his participation in community activities, including Boy Scouts of America and the Parent-Teachers Association.

He was commended specifically for his supervision of the Mobility Control Center which supported the Atomic Energy Commission project in Amchka, Alaska, and for his contribution to communications support for President Richard M. Nixon's visit to the Azores.

The 20-year Air Force veteran served at Clark AB, Philippines, prior to his assignment at Tinker. He is scheduled for reassignment to Osan AB, Republic of Korea.

His wife, Dolly, is the daughter of Mrs. Inez Copeland, 8161 Sherman Road, Chesterland, Ohio. Sergeant and Mrs. Roe have two children — Michael and Michelle.

PANAMA CITY, FLA. U.S. Air Force Captain Charles D. Ortleb of Murray Hill, N.J., is a member of the unit at Tyndall AFB, Fla., which has won the Aerospace Defense Command's (ADC) Management Engineering Team Award for 1971.

Captain Ortleb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Ortleb of 47 Ethan Drive, Murray Hill, N.J., is a management officer, with the winning team which operated as a detachment out of the Manpower and Organization Directorate at ADC headquarters.

The captain and fellow team members were cited for quality of work and overall ability to provide appropriate manpower management service to units located in states as far north as New Jersey and as far west as Texas.

A 1961 graduate of Plainfield (N.J.) High School, he received his bachelor's degree in 1965 from Fairleigh Dickinson University, Madison, N.J. Captain Ortleb also holds a master's degree from the University of Missouri at Columbia.

He was commissioned in 1967 upon completion of Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, Tex.

The captain's wife, Jean, is the daughter of Mrs. Alice M. Gaffney of Orchard Drive, Wallkill.

There are some things you just can't fake.

There are two ways to make beer. You can start out with the finest natural ingredients, direct from the harvest. Or with commercial syrups and flavorings, direct from the laboratory.

Then you can age your brew the slow, natural way. With time. Or you can age it artificially. By pumping it full of carbon dioxide gas.

In fact, just about every step in the brewing process can be hurried up, shortcutted or faked.

But when you put a glass of the finished product in front of a real beer drinker, you can't fake him. He can taste the difference.

And that's the man we brew Utica Club for. Not for the guy who has an occasional beer on a hot afternoon. But for the guy who drinks beer every day. The guy who can taste the difference between a real U.C. and some second rate imitation.

Every glass of Utica Club is a combination of costly natural ingredients, painstaking brewing methods and three generations of family pride.

And those are the kind of things you just can't fake.

Utica Club

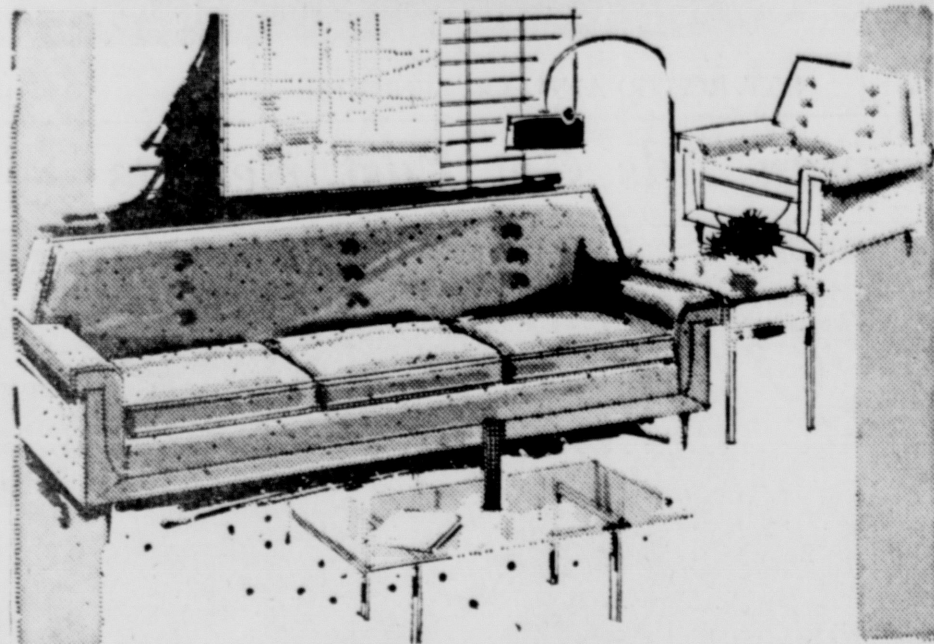

There's nothing phony about it.

Keep Senior Citizens at Home . . . Initial Steps Taken

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

The initial steps toward a program that would keep Ulster County's elderly residents in their own homes, rather than in a nursing home or hospital, were taken at a meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel Wednesday afternoon.

Sponsored by the Kingston Rotary Club, the meeting featured Mrs. Melinda Davis, senior citizens coordinator for the Ulster County Community Action Committee.

Mrs. Davis was a delegate to the recent White House Conference on Aging in Washington, D.C. and a member of the steering committee for the National Voluntary Organization for the Elderly. At Wednesday's meeting, Mrs. Davis outlined plans to establish a local steering committee to work with the national organization.

The express purpose of the group is to reduce the number of Senior Citizens who are moved to nursing homes and hospitals by providing extensive care and aid so that they can continue to reside in their own homes. Mrs. Davis said this goal was emphasized above all others at the White House Conference.

A number of persons at the invitation-only luncheon meeting Wednesday volunteered to serve on the steering committee, although no one was sure what their responsibilities would be. Mrs. Davis said she expects to get specific information on their goals and procedures from the national organization. Until that time, former Kingston Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan was appointed temporary chairman of the local steering committee. But most of the meeting was devoted to a wide ranging discussion on the problems of the elderly in Ulster County.

Mrs. Davis explained that UCCAC is expanding its Senior Citizens' hot meal program to areas throughout Ulster County, and that the group is now working to provide shut-ins with transportation to club meetings, clinics, doctors' offices and recreation areas. She said that through the expansion of the hot meal program, a county-wide transportation system for Senior Citizens may be established.

Rev. James P. Veatch, pastor of the Trinity United Methodist Church, said members of his congregation are interested in establishing a program where volunteers would place daily telephone calls to Senior Citizens to alleviate the isolation and loneliness of living alone. He suggested that a similar program might be established by UCCAC.

Dr. William C. Taylor, Commissioner of the Ulster County Health Department, and Harold Larsen, a caseworker for the Ulster County Department of Social Services, both agreed that costs would be reduced noticeably if more Senior Citizens were allowed to reside in their own homes. "The tax savings alone would be huge," said Taylor.

Most of the suggestions for expanded care of Ulster County's Senior Citizens will be incorporated under the "umbrella" of the newly-formed steering committee. Future meetings are being planned to decide specifically what programs will receive priority, although all are expected to receive some consideration.

While plans for this group are still in the formative stage, progress is continuing on details of the Ulster County Conference on Aging, slated for April 7. Dr. Arthur Flemming, a former Kingston resident and special advisor to President Nixon on aging, will be the guest speaker.

$2.7 Million Grant Awarded Project Renaissance

By WADE BURKHART

NEW ROCHELLE

Project Renaissance has received official confirmation of its grant from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and the grant went into effect Wednesday, according to Renaissance's executive director.

Joseph Tortelli, the executive director of the drug rehabilitation program based in New Rochelle and with a residential center in Ellenville, said the grant was spread out over eight years. The total grant is much larger than originally reported, coming to about $2.7 million over the life of the grant, according to Tortelli.

Renaissance will receive $249,000 this year, and has to raise $71,000 on its own part to get the money. The amount Renaissance will get from the federal government is based on a sliding scale. This first year the federal government puts up 80 per cent, Renaissance 20 per cent. At the end of the eight-year life of the grant, the federal government will be putting up 30 per cent, Renaissance 70 per cent.

Renaissance also gets funds from the state, and from the counties in which it operates. Tortelli said the federal money was going to come in handy. The state's budgetary difficulties have caused a holdup of its funds for Renaissance, and the counties, understandably, according to Tortelli, have been reluctant to advance any of their money until they see what the state commitment is.

The $71,000 Renaissance will have to raise to get the federal money is over and above whatever it gets from the state and counties and will have to be raised privately.

Tortelli thought raising the $71,000 could be done comfortably, from friends and parents, and through their dinner-dance, in which they sell advertising. He said the journal raises $25-30,000; there has been a good response from Kingston and Ulster County firms in buying space and helping the project.

The federal grant is brightening the financial picture for the project considerably, Tortelli said. "Last year at this time we didn't even think we would still be in business now."

The director said, though it was kept quiet to keep from alarming project workers, the financial picture was especially bleak this winter. "We didn't expect to see spring," he said.

Now spring is almost here, in the face of financial woe has been its relatively low expenses. Tortelli said the project's budget, at its peak with present staff, runs about $20,000 a month and Tortelli said this is low considering the number of people involved. He expected the additional people the federal grant provides for will swell the monthly budget to a possible $40,000 top, still a fairly low level.

The project has about 70 in its residential centers, about 150 getting help in its community store front operations, and about 10 in the phase out portion of the program.

Tortelli said Renaissance, and all drug programs, might soon be taking a new direction in the area of drug rehabilitation, that of greater emphasis on helping the addict while he remains in the community.

The reason for the change is the frightening average age drop among dope addicts. Tortelli said when Renaissance began, the average of the addicts treated was 23 years nine months. It is now 17 years seven months. He hoped drug rehabilitation would be carried on away from expensive residential centers, in the community, where the addict would remain in the community and in school.

Residential treatment would be reserved for those for whom it was the last hope.

Eviction Notice Served On Children of God

Members of the New England Christian Youth Association, more familiar known as the Children of God, were served with an eviction notice Wednesday night. The petition, returnable in Wawarsing Town Court next Wednesday, demands the groups' ouster for alleged violations of multiple residency laws.

The Children of God have rented buildings owned by the Renaissance Project on Cape Road in Ulster Heights.

The fundamentalist, evangelical, religious sect, often referred to as Jesus Freaks, was warned in January of this year by Town of Wawarsing Building Inspector Donald Mekulik as to violations of multiple residency laws.

Violations include improper wiring, no lighted exit signs, improper plumbing and heating, crowded rooms, no fire escapes or fire detection systems, plus many minor violations.

At the time of Mekulik's initial warning, he stated that he realized the Children of God were trying to correct the violations but expressed the hope that the 42-member strong group, including six babies, would seek professional help in their attempt to correct the existing violations.

According to officials at the camp, between $3,500 and $5,000 worth of repairs had been made. However, the corrections made weren't enough.

Ronnie Crisp, a COG spokesman, stated at the time of the initial warning that corrections were being made but that Mekulik kept finding new ones.

The Building Inspector agreed with Crisp that he had continuously found new violations each time he visited the camp. However, he felt that he had 'gone out on a limb' by giving the COG time to correct the violations.

Apparently the greatest concern of the Building Inspector and other Town of Wawarsing officials was for the lack of fire preventative construction, a fire warning system and avenue of escape from buildings in case of fire at the camp, feeling that the slightest emergency could result in devastating disaster.

According to Rev. David Cook, 22-year-old advisor to the group, there will be no contest to the eviction notice and that members would be transferred to other of the association's 23 COG colonies in the Northeast.

Rhinebeck Council to Observe Prayer Day

RHINEBECK Lutheran Church, 35 Livingston Street. The Rhinebeck Area Council of Church Women United will observe World Day of Prayer the international celebration of faith and unity among Christian women, Friday at the Third p.m. service will be Mrs. Captain Edsel Wheatley of the Poughkeepsie Salvation Army. All area churches will participate in the service. This celebration is the most widely observed activity of Church Women United, which is the ecumenical expression of Protestant, Orthodox and Roman Catholic women who wish to mobilize around common goals and channel their energies into effective action," according to Joan Zitz.

There are 2,300 units of CWU in the United States, and liaison officers from each national committee form a sponsoring International Committee which met most recently in 1970 at Bangkok.

As the women of Eastern and Western Europe chose what petitions should be included in this year's worldwide prayers they were aware of three problems affecting the whole world: the plight of displaced peoples; the strained relationships between the generations; and the unsettling effects of the technological revolution.

The World Day of Prayer offering goes into a fund called Intercontinental Mission. The people and places to whom funds are granted include women and children in need of education and better nutrition, minority women in new careers, 13 women's colleges in Asia and the Near East, international students, American Indians and Spanish-speaking minorities, migrants, refugees, vacationers in National Parks, future church leaders interested in ecology, and women leaders in Africa and Latin America.

Congregation to Hear Missionary From India

Miss Geraldine Chappell, missionary to India, will speak at the Church of the Nazarene, Elmendorf Street and Wiltwyck Avenue, Kingston, Friday, March 3 at 7:30 p.m.

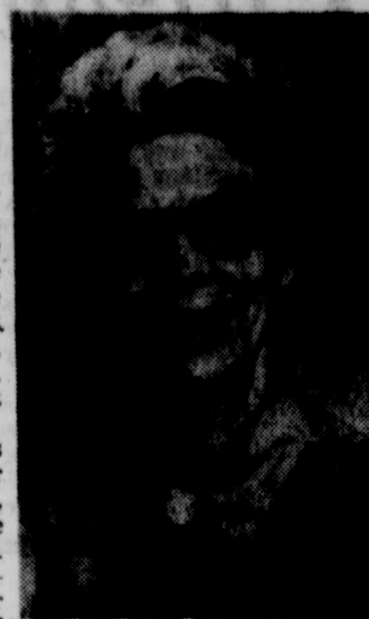

Miss Chappell, who is now on her fourth furlough since being assigned to India in 1941, will be making her home in Illinois during her present furlough.

Her nursing profession has kept her most beneficially occupied throughout her years in India. A missionary service she will conduct Friday at the local church will include her presentation of her observations of the personnel with whom she has had the privilege to work at the missionary dispensaries and hospitals.

Miss Chappell received her general education at Normal, Illinois and at Olivet Nazarene College, Kankakee, Ill. She earned her B. A. degree at the latter and her R. N. degree at the Samaritan Hospital, Nampa, Idaho. She received her B.S. degree in Nursing Education at Northwest Nazarene College.

While on furlough, Miss Chappell studied at Frontier Nursing Service, Hyden, Ky., and there received the Registered Midwifery degree. Before her overseas appointment she was a supervisor in the Samaritan Hospital School of Nursing.

Musical Revue Planned Here By Sweet Adelines Chapter

Colonial City Chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc. of Kingston will present a musical revue in barbershop harmony on Saturday, Mar. 11 at 8 p.m. at George Washington School, Kingston.

In addition to the Colonial City Chorus of 25 multi-talented women, "Showboat Saturday Night" will feature Tony Bell of Radio Station WGHQ as master of ceremonies; Joseph Naccarato on banjo; and a trio of soft shoe dancers from the Betty Bunce School of Dance. The Banjos Quartet and the Copperbells Octet all promise to lend an air of authenticity to the showboat setting and old familiar tunes.

The Worcester, Mass.,

Chapter of Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America (SPEBSQSA) provides one of the featured quartets. The Haystack Four. The spontaneous comedy of these four young men is long remembered by the many audiences that have heard them.

The Priorities, a quartet from Ramsey, N.J. is the other featured quartet of the evening. The four vivacious ladies have literally swept the East Coast off their collective ears and promise to do the same here.

Tickets may be obtained from Abrams Music Store, Wall Street, Kingston, from any member, or at the door.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

DEAR MRS. POST:
About three weeks ago I asked a neighbor to bring something from the grocery for me. I told her whatever it cost I would give her the money. The reason I did not give her the money then, was that I was short of cash and the bank was closed. Since then I have not heard anything from her. I do not think it is up to me to call her. Tell me, was it her place to call me, and please tell me why?

MRS. F.

DEAR MRS. F.:
If your neighbor agreed to run the errand at the time you made the request, she is the one who should call you to apologize for not having fulfilled it. If she found she did not have enough money with her, she should have called and explained that that was the reason. The fact she did neither, seems to indicate that she didn't think you would repay her, and if that is so, she should not have said she would do the errand to begin with.

I wouldn't call her now. If you wish to remain friends with her, simply drop it, but try not to ask anyone to do a similar favor unless you have the money ready.

DEAR MRS. POST:

I've just become engaged. I have a few problems thought you might solve. My parents are divorced. My father is remarried. My mother is not. I want both parents to give me away. After we walk up the aisle and they leave me, where should they sit? Also, where does my father's wife and children (who are both married with children) sit? I have a single brother, thirty years old, and a sister with children.

DEAR CARLA:

Only your father should walk up the aisle with you. From your letter I assume it is to be a Christian ceremony, and in the Christian ceremony, generally only the father escorts the daughter up the aisle, especially when the parents are divorced.

Your mother should sit in the first pew on the left side, with your brother. Your sister and her family should sit behind them, and your father (after escorting you to the altar) with his wife in the third pew. His stepchildren and grandchildren sit in the fourth pew.

DEAR MRS. POST:

How does one determine what type of wedding reception is planned when the invitation states only the time of the ceremony and the place where the reception is to be held?

The typical reception we were accustomed to in the midwest was one where only champagne, wedding cake and possibly little sandwiches were served, but here in the East we find more sitdown dinner receptions, even for people of very modest means. A 7 p. m. invitation, for instance, might be either type reception.

MRS. GRISWOLD

DEAR MRS. GRISWOLD:
One can only guess what sort of reception is planned by the hour it is held. If it is an afternoon wedding, with a reception at 5 or 5:30, the chances are that the refreshments will consist of "snacks" — or possibly a light buffet of sandwiches, dips, etc. If it is a small wedding, perhaps only cake and champagne are served. This would also be true of an evening reception following an 8 or 8:30 service. Guests would be expected to have dinner before the wedding.

However, when a reception is planned to start between 6:30 and 8 p.m. you can be fairly sure that a dinner will be served, whether it be sit-down or buffet. A full luncheon can be expected at a reception which starts between 12 noon and 2 p.m.

Upcoming Social Activities Are Listed

Food Demonstration

The Maverick Craftsmen, and Ulster County Home Extension Club, will sponsor a program entitled "It's a Lot of Bologna" on Wednesday, Mar. 8 at 1 p.m. The food demonstration lesson will be presented by Mrs. Dorothy Kurzawa and Mrs. Karin Horner at the home of Mrs. Valarie Broadbridge, West Hurley.

Penny Social

A penny social evening will be held at Lloyd United Methodist Church hall on old Route 299 on Saturday at 8 p.m. The event is being sponsored by Odd Fellows Sunshine Lodge and Vineyard Rebekah Lodge of Highland. FAMILY SABBATH DINNER — Members of Congregation Ahavath Israel and their families and guests will enjoy a special Sabbath dinner and religious services on Friday, March 10. The special observance will begin at 5:45 p. m. and will feature traditional Sabbath prayers and a traditional Sabbath meal. There will also be the singing of songs of praise or "Zmirot." Families will be seated together and there is a special price for children under 12 years of age. After the dinner, the group will reconvene in the main sanctuary of the Congregation for religious services. An Oneg Shabbat featuring items baked by a special committee under the guidance of Mrs. Joseph Horowitz will take place after services. Pictured here preparing the Sabbath table are (L-R) Mrs. Harry Fertel, co-chairman; Mrs. Harry Z. Schectman, special advisor and coordinator of the event; and Mrs. Max Eckdich, co-chairman. Sisterhood president is Mrs. Ira Shaw. Reservations for the dinner may be made by contacting Mrs. Eckdich or Mrs. Fertel, both of Kingston, by Friday, March 3. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Should Invitations Include Children?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR GIRL: He could grow a mustache.

DEAR ABBY: When people make expensive weddings or Bar Mitzvahs, I can understand why they might not want small children. But when they invite friends who have children in their late teens (or even older), living at home, I think it's an insult to the parents and their children to exclude them.

I am a widow with a 20-year-old daughter and a 21-year-old son at home, and I will never again accept an invitation which does not include them. Why should I have to come alone? Do you agree with me?

BURNED UP IN BROOKLYN

DEAR BURNED: No. When one invites a single adult (widow, widower, divorcee, etc.) to a large affair, a thoughtful gesture would be to indicate that an escort (or partner) would be welcome. If the partner happens to be an adult offspring, fine. But grown children shouldn't be automatically invited just because they are still living at home. If they are wanted, they should receive separate invitations, but they shouldn't be "sheleppalongs."

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend has dark wavy hair which he wears down to his shoulders. He's rather slight and has delicate features, so it's not surprising that he gets mistaken for a girl a lot. He doesn't like to be mistaken for a girl, so I suggested he cut his hair a little, but he doesn't want to. Anything else he can do?

DANNY'S GIRL

DEAR ABBY: We have friends who have an only child, eight years old. He was born long after the parents had given up all hope of ever having a child. (I mention this only so you will know why they dote on him.) This boy has never known discipline, so he is spoiled rotten. He is exceptionally bright, so his parents hang on his every word and permit him to dominate every adult conversation.

Worse yet, this child is never left home! Even on New Year's Eve his parents dragged him to an adult party! This kid was allowed to stay up until the party ended at 2:30 a.m.!

Our problem: A club to which we belong is planning a charter flight to Europe this summer, and these friends have signed up WITH the boy included. This is not a family type trip. Abby, nobody else is taking a child. We all agree that this kid is a pain in the neck. But who should tell the parents?

ANONYMOUS PLEASE

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Why should anyone "tell" them? Now that it's become obvious that "the kid" goes everywhere with Mamma and Papa, those of you who do not care for the arrangement should absent yourselves from their company.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles Cal. 90069.

(Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 10:25 a.m. WKNY-1490).

Narcotics Council to Benefit From Zonta Walkathon

Now it can be told. All those feet you've been seeing in the Daily Freeman have added up to a major WALKATHON scheduled for May 20 in Kingston. Sponsored by Zonta Club of Kingston for the benefit of the Kingston Narcotics Council and its drug prevention program, the WALKATHON promises to introduce some of the most popular personalities as walkers in this benefit program.

Zonta, a service club for executive women, has been working on details of the "bunion parade" for several months now. Led by co-chairmen President Colleen Crespino and Beverly Mulligan, the club has made its initial contact with major organizations throughout the county and the response to date is most gratifying.

Zonta is encouraging everyone to walk. "I think we are all interested in providing desperately needed funds for the Kingston Narcotics Council and its drug prevention program in Kingston and throughout Ulster County," President Crespino said.

People have walked for many causes down through the centuries.

Here's a chance for Ulster County to put itself on the map as an area interested in meeting a problem head-on with a program of action.

Walkers will step off from Wallace's parking lot on May 20 between the hours of 9-10 a.m. The route is exactly three miles with five check points. However, any walker may choose to walk as many or as few check points as desired. The more check points, the more money for the narcotics program.

Walkers completing the entire route will receive a beautiful certificate of completion—something suitable for framing.

The five check points will be: Albany Nursing Home, Governor Clinton Hotel, Ulster County Savings Bank, front steps of N. Y. Telephone Company, with destination at Kingston Shopping Plaza.

Each walker will have the responsibility of obtaining as many sponsors as possible and the walkers' names will be published. Anyone walking in the benefit program should make it known he or she is participating and contact people and organizations for the purpose of sponsorships. A walker should ask the question:

"How much will you pay per check point to see me walk for local drug prevention." Walkers may also sponsor themselves.

When the Zonta Walkathon is completed in the Kingston Plaza, all walkers will be invited to join a reception and festivities there scheduled for 12 o'clock.

Zontians working on committees include: Mickey Duncan, Marianne Williams, Helen Geneis and Angela Goffredi, general committee; Dorothy A. Narel, Alma Fredericks, Gertrude Schomer and Mickey Duncan, publicity; Mickey Duncan, posters, check point banners; Charlotte Shuler and Phyllis Barlow, mail committee; Marianne Williams check point chairman; Sister Mary Charles and Dr. Audrey Hamilton, first aid and security; Marie Matthews and Mary Jo Dunham, refreshments; Chris Gallop, Gloria Myers, Helen Geneis and

Entry Blanks
Walkers and sponsors may obtain Walkathon entry and pledge sheets from the following:

Phyllis Barlow, Ulster County Extension Service; Colleen Crespino, Ulster County Savings Bank; Mickey Duncan, Hidden Valley Recreation Center; Mary Jo Dunham, Dunham Tunnel and Excavation; Alma Fredericks, Halcyon Park, Lake Katrine; Chris Gallop, J & G Drywall Inc.; Helen Geneis, Ulster County Health Dept.

Also: Angela Goffredi, Haver Business Furniture, Kingston; Maureen Graham, Social Services, Child Welfare; Dr. Audrey Hamilton, Woodstock; Marie Matthews, Eleven Main Restaurant; Beverlee Mulligan, Mulligan School Bus, Inc.; Rosendale; Gloria Myers, Myers Electric Inc.; Dorothy A. Narel, The Daily Freeman.

Also: Gertrude Schomer, Old Stockade Thrift Shoppe, Kingston; Charlotte Shuler, Albany Avenue Nursing Home; Sister Mary Charles, Benedictine Hospital; Maude Snyder, Kingston Trust Company; Kay Sullivan, Kingston Savings Bank; Marianne Williams, Williams Lake Hotel, Rosendale.

ZONTA is an organization of executive, business and professional women united to give service. Each club member is required to give time, talent, inspiration and energy to the betterment of the local and world community. ZONTA is on a par with such service clubs as Cosmopolitan Exchange, Kiwanis, Lions, Optimist, Rotary, Soroptimist, and Sorority. The service club plans and acts to meet the civic, social and educational needs of the community.

ZONTA OF KINGSTON has launched a "first" in this area—a Walkathon for the benefit of Kingston Narcotics Council and its drug prevention program. Everyone will be putting on their flats to work in support of a program of action. Working diligently on details of the local "bunion parade" are Zontians (L-R) Mickey Duncan; Colleen Crespino, club president; Angela Goffredi; Beverlee Mulligan and Helen Geneis. The Walkathon will take place May 20 and countless well known personalities will be joining the parade. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Sorosis Sponsors Art Contest

Miss Martha Freer, president, has announced that Sorosis Club of Kingston will sponsor an Art Contest. Entries of students who will be graduated this year from high school, academy and private schools will be accepted. This contest is part of the club's work with the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs Fine Arts Department.

This exhibit will be on display on Thursday afternoon, Mar. 9, and on Friday, Mar. 10 at the Bonanza Branch of the Kingston Savings Bank. Original works of paintings, pastels, pen and ink and mixed media will be judged by three eminently qualified persons. Winning entries will be entered into District Competition by the Federated Women's Clubs. The winner of that competition will compete at the State level.

Hints From Heloise for the Busy Housewife

THOSE WIGS REALLY GET AROUND

Dear Heloise:
I have found a way of making a wig case that's suitable for traveling, and at very little cost.

Get an ice cream carton (the large, round type used by ice cream specialty stores). Clean it out with soap and water and dry thoroughly. Make sure you get one with a lid.

Most stores give them away but some do charge a few cents for them.

Decorate the outside with wallpaper or paste pictures all around it.

Then all you need is a gold cord for the handle. Fasten this to the inside of the case and run it through small holes made in the sides—same procedure that is used in hat boxes.

Put the wig on its plastic foam head and lower the entire head and wig into the case.

Put the lid on and you are ready to travel with your wig. It's exactly the right size and very light to carry!

Mrs. F.P.W.

And I can vouch for it, gals. They're adorable! A friend gave me one decorated with my columns cut from her newspaper. It's so cute.

But instead of a gold cord, she used a black one, and trimmed the rim of the lid with black velvet ribbon.

It really looks smart—I wouldn't take a million for it.

And wouldn't these make lovely gifts for any occasion, or for no occasion at all? Those are the best kind — "just because" gifts, I call 'em!

Heloise

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise:
Someone once said, "The happiest person is the one who thinks the most interesting thoughts."

My thought for today: As the artist creates a painting, a bird creates a nest; as I cook, iron, wash, or clean—I create a home!

Mrs. Pauline Galante

Dear Heloise:
For a lunch that is just a bit different, try stuffed hot dogs (wiensers, franks, whatever you call them) with cheese.

Just take a sharp knife and make a lengthwise slit in the wiener. Then stuff with cheese, top with barbecue sauce and broil about seven minutes.

It's heavenly!
Young Mother

Dear Heloise:
Recently I purchased an inexpensive mascara refill. To my disappointment the contents were old, rather hard, and difficult to apply smoothly.

While wondering what to do, I happened to notice that the instructions with the refill suggested that the mascara be removed from the eyelashes with cold cream rather than soap and water since the mascara was waterproof.

I decided to put a small amount of cold cream into the mascara refill to soften it and the idea worked beautifully. I even put some cold cream into my old refill and now have two refills better than new.

Be sure to clean and dry the applicator wand of the old, dried mascara before putting in the cold cream.

Adding the cold cream to the mascara also seems to make the mascara a lot easier to remove from your eyelashes at night.

Diane Taylor

Dear Heloise:
This may seem like a very minor thing but it's disconcerting to me when I can't read the label on a medicine bottle because the contents have drooled down the sides when being poured into a spoon.

To prevent this little annoyance, I always see to it that the label (with the directions on it) is facing me when I pour the medication into a spoon.

This eliminates the drips and dribbles that are the culprits.

Ellenville Youth in Custody In Homowack Lodge Robbery

FERDALE, N.Y. — A 19-year-old Ellenville youth was in custody today and warrants have been issued for the arrest of a 22-year-old man in connection with an armed robbery at the Homowack Lodge in Spring Glen that netted about $400.

State Police BCI officers said Michael Miller of Laurenskill Road, Ellenville, was taken in custody in that village Wednesday afternoon and charged with robbery first degree.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Joseph Edward (Jody) Finnin, Jr., 22, of 24 Chapel Street, Ellenville, who faces a first degree robbery count. Police throughout the area were cooperating in a search for the second suspect.

Senior BCI Investigator Norman Buck said Finnin allegedly was the gunman who robbed Mrs. Bertha Schacter, bookkeeper, at the lodge at about 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday.

Miller, Buck said, reportedly

City BPW Takes Bid Under Advisement

KINGSTON — The Kingston Board of Public Works has taken under advisement a bid of $4,073 for eight mercury vapor street lights along lower Broadway.

The only bid opened at last night's meeting of BPW commissioners was submitted by Canfield Supply Co. of Kingston. It was for support standards and lights only. Installation would be done by BPW crews if the bid is approved.

BPW spokesman said that the budget would be checked for available funds before a vote is taken on accepting the Canfield bid.

Bids were received for several categories of materials but the spokesman said they would have to be tabulated and studied before results are announced.

Italy, Poland Win Medals

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Italy and Poland have joined the ranks of gold medal winners at the World University Winter Games here with slalom victories on the slushy slopes of fog-covered Whiteface Mountain. While unseasonably high temperatures softened the runs on Whiteface, a controversy warmed up off the slopes on eighth medal of the games, when Stanford University's A. Rockefeller's snubbing of the Winter Games, hosted by the United States for the first time, Wednesday with a time of 1:30.43, about three-quarters a second behind winner Anahid Tasgian of Italy. Poland's Roman Derejinski grabbed the gold medal in the men's slalom, crossing the line in 1:25.72, almost a full second ahead of silver medalist Masayoshi Kashiwaga of Japan.

At Plattsburgh, 50 miles to the north, the Canadians topped the winless U.S. hockey team 5-3. Canada is now 2-2 in the three-team round-robin tournament. The U.S. squad, which has lost three games, faces the undefeated Russians tonight in Plattsburgh.

A spokesman for Rockefeller said the governor, listed as the official patron of the nine-day games, was "busy in Albany" and unable to appear at Lake Placid. New York was represented by State University Chancellor Ernest L. Boyer instead.

"It would have been appropriate for him to be here," said Nick Rodis of Brandeis University, echoing the sentiment of many of the organizers and officials here. Rodis is president of the U.S. Collegiate Sports Council, the American affiliate of the International Federation of University Sports FISU, sponsor of the games.

The president of the international organization, Primo Nebiolo of Torino, Italy, said the governor had invited FISU officials to Albany for a reception.

"We are not going," said the indignant Nebiolo. "We believe he should come here and visit us."

The sloppy conditions on Whiteface, coupled with the blinding fog, caused some minor discontent among the skiers. Several suggested that the slalom events should have been postponed.

France's Fabrice Thomas was awarded the bronze in the men's slalom after Gerfried Zobel of Austria was disqualified. A similar disqualification of Gail Susslin, St. Albans, Vt., gave third place to Austrian Barbi Edelsbrunner in the women's race.

Miss West, of San Francisco, held the lead after the first slalom run, but the mounting pressure apparently kept her from the gold.

Although the Soviet Union was shut out in Wednesday's events, the Russians still hold a comfortable lead in the over-all medal competition. They have won a total of 10 medals, compared with the United States' eight. France has won four. Czechoslovakia three, Austria and Japan two each. Canada, Italy and Poland each has won a single medal.

Twin Girls That Close In Skiing

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Two American girls finished less than a second apart in the women's five-kilometer cross-country race here, but that's not so surprising—they are twins.

Maryanne and Roxanne Van Enkevort of Fairbanks, Alaska, are half of the U.S. women's squad for the cross-country events at the World University Winter Games.

The girls, tall and with rust-colored hair, are both 18 years old, and have been cross-country skiers, together, for four years.

"We practiced together and we tortured together. Everything," said Maryanne, or was it Roxanne, as they stood beside the cross-country course after competing in the five-kilometer event.

Twin-like, they finished 10th and 11th out of 13 racers in the arduous race at nearby Mt. VanHoevenberg Tuesday. Had their times been any closer, it would have been a dead heat.

Roxanne—"Maryanne and I, we don't know for sure but we're probably not identical twins."

Maryanne—"We thought we were until three years ago because we were a lot closer, but now we don't know."

If they're not identical, they're close enough for the question to come up.

Roxanne—"Today at the finish results they said, 10th, Van-Enkevort; 11th, sister Van-Enkevort," so we had to go up and ask them which time was which."

Maryanne—"That's the first time we've been this close this year. Last year were were a lot closer."

The girls are putting up with a lot of pain for their sport, which demands that they drive themselves relentlessly over courses of five to ten kilometers (3.1 and 6.2 miles) in competition and then train rigorously when they're not racing.

Roxanne—"You get to hurting pretty bad. On the uphill your leg muscles get so tight they just burn, and your lungs hurt."

The twins, freshmen at Alaska Methodist University in Anchorage, are half of the girls' team here, but they're only two-fifths of the cross-country skiers in the Van-Enkevort family.

Maryanne—"We have a 15-year-old sister who's almost as good as we are, so it's always been the VanEnkevort sisters, you know, the three of us."

And behind Laurie, they said, are Vicki, 13, and Matthew, 11, both of them already in age group competition.

PRINCIPALS: Alex Webster (B), coach of the New York Football Giants, has filed a $1.5 million defamation suit against the ABC-TV network and named sportscasters Jim Bouton (T) and Sal Marchiano as co-defendants. (Story below) (UPI)

For Cool $1.5 Million

Webster Sues Jim and Sal

NEW YORK (UPI) — Alex Webster, coach of the New York Giants, filed a $1.5 million defamation suit in Manhattan against the ABC-TV network.

Sportscasters Jim Bouton and Sal Marchiano were named co-defendants in the action which resulted out of an interview and telecast made last Dec. 14.

Marchiano interviewed Webster at Yankee Stadium and asked why the Giants—who won only four games last year—were having problems on the field.

When the filmed interview appeared on the 11 p.m. EST news, conducted by Bouton, it was played backward with sound.

Bouton said that after listening to the interview in the screening room, he decided to run it backwards with Webster's voice going backwards. But the sound was erased when it went on the air because of a technical problem.

When the film clip concluded, Bouton said, "I guess Alex doesn't know either."

Webster contended in his suit he interpreted the remark as meaning that he (Webster) was "an incompetent football coach, that he was not fit to be head coach, that he was unable to articulate his ideas, thoughts and views coherently, that he was unable in any way to account for, or explain the problems experienced by the Giants during the 1971 football season and that he was a dullard and stupid person."

Webster, in the court paper, charged the statements were "false, malicious and defamatory."

The defendants have 20 days to answer.

Barbara Cochran of Rutland, Vt., was the Olympic gold medalist at Sapporo last month finishing just ahead of Miss Proell but here she finished ninth in 1:21.66.

Rosi Mittermaier of West Germany was second in 1:19.26 and Britt LaFarge of France was third in 1:19.31.

The next three places went to American girls—Marilyn Cochran of Rutland, Vt., in 1:20.15, Sandra Poulson of Squaw Valley, Calif., in 1:21.08 and Karen Budge of Jackson, Wyo., in 1:21.10.

The divers competed in a three-part program. All representatives first took five dives from which 10 divers were cut. Then after the next three dives, four more divers went by the boards. That left three final dives for the 12 survivors.

Points were awarded on a reduced scale to the top 12 with 16 tallied in the winners' column.

Only other diving in the championships will be on Friday during the swimming finals, but those dives will be for exhibition.

Preliminary swimming begins tonight at White Plains.

Baker spent most of last season with Richmond where he hit .311 and had 41 RBI.

Packers Ink Two GREEN BAY (UPI) — A pair of four-year veterans, running back Dave Hampton and wide receiver John Spill, have both agreed to terms of their 1972 contracts with the Green Bay Packers.

Evans was called up from Richmond in May of last year when Clete Boyer quit the team. Evans hit .242 for the Braves with 12 home runs and 38 RBI.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Third baseman Darrell Evans and outfielder Dusty Baker signed their 1972 contracts Wednesday with the Atlanta Braves.

Evans was called up from Richmond in May of last year when Clete Boyer quit the team. Evans hit .242 for the Braves with 12 home runs and 38 RBI.

John Jay High School varsity girls defeated Kingston High, 32-14, in a DCSL varsity basketball game, but the Maroon Jayvees won the game, 28-13.

Deb Miraldi led the KHS varsity with 6 points and Teru Velardi had 11 for John Jay. Lula Davis paced the KHS Jayvee win with six points. Cindy Lowe had five and Cathy Fitzgerald, Mary Leahy and Connie Robinson four each. Sus Taggart of John Jay was game leader with seven.

Annamarie Is Queen 2nd Time

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (UPI)—Annamarie Proell is queen of the women's hill in World Cup skiing for a second straight year and today five fellow Europeans begin the struggle for the men's title.

Miss Proell, who is a native of Austria, locked up the women's title at Heavenly Valley Wednesday by finishing first in the giant slalom in the good time of 1:18.96.

That victory, which kicked off four days of World Cup competition here, gave Miss Proell 25 more points and an unbeatable 258 with only three events remaining in the Cup series.

Today, it's the men's turn in the giant slalom with Jean August of France, Bernard Russi of Switzerland, Henri Duvalard of France, Andrius Bachleda of Poland and defending champion Gustavo Thoeni of Italy only 32 points apart.

Karl Schranz of Austria is between Bachleda and Thoeni in the standings but he is out of competition for the rest of this season.

Most experts believe the men's race will go down to the wire unless, of course, one of the top five makes a sweep here. The touring Cup skiers go onto Val Gardena, Italy, from here for the next event on March 15-16. Then the action switches to Campiglio, Italy, on March 17 and Praloup, France, on March 19.

Miss Proell, who made a near-flawless run through the 49-gate course with its 1,200 foot vertical drop, said she will compete in all remaining races this year and her clear cut goal, as of the moment, is a gold medal in the 1971 Winter Olympics at Denver, Colo., although she considers the World Cup a far more demanding competition.

"The World Cup is a situation which proves that this racing series is much more demanding than the Olympic events," she said after her victory Wednesday. "I would have loved to have won the gold medal at Sapporo and since I didn't, I'm going to continue as an amateur and now have my sights set on the 1976 Olympics."

Barbara Cochran of Rutland, Vt., was the Olympic gold medalist at Sapporo last month finishing just ahead of Miss Proell but here she finished ninth in 1:21.66.

RATELLE IN ACTION — New York Rangers' leading scorer Jean Ratelle (R) is shown in action against California Golden Seals Wednesday night before he suffered injury that will keep him sidelined for the rest of the regular season. Ratelle, second leading scorer in the NHL with 109 points, was hit just above the right ankle on a shot fired by teammate Dale Rolfe early in the second period. X-rays revealed a fracture. Others in photo are Ranger Gary Doak (L) and Seals' Dick Redmond (4). (UPI)

Injury Shelves Jean Ratelle

A freak accident has cost Jean Ratelle his dream of winning the National Hockey League scoring championship, and the price may be even steeper for the New York Rangers.

The tall, lanky Ranger center, enjoying the greatest season in team history with 46 goals and 109 points, suffered a broken bone above his right ankle during Wednesday night's 4-1 victory over the California Golden Seals and will be lost for at least the remainder of the regular season.

At the time of the accident, Ratelle trailed Boston's Phil Esposito by only a single point in the scoring race, and now it appears that Esposito can coast to his second consecutive title and third in four years.

"Frankly, I'm sorry to hear about it," Esposito said in Boston when he was informed of Ratelle's injury. "He's one of the good guys on the team and he was having such a great year."

The victory, the fifth straight for the Rangers, moved them to within seven points of first place Boston in the East.

Division and kept them eight points in front of the third-place Montreal Canadiens, who whipped the Buffalo Sabres, 4-1.

In other games Wednesday night, the Toronto Maple Leafs beat the St. Louis Blues, 3-1, and the Chicago Black Hawks turned back the Los Angeles Kings, 6-4, as Jim Pappin scored three goals.

Ratelle suffered his injury on his first shift of the second period when he was hit on the inside of his right leg just above the ankle by a puck fired by teammate Dale Rolfe.

"I was shooting on goal and Ratty looked like he tried to leap over it," Rolfe said. "Unfortunately, it hit him."

Vic Hadfield didn't even last as long as Ratelle Wednesday night, being ejected from the game after only 5:28 when he struck linesman Alan Gaspell with a hard right during a fight with California's Bob Stewart.

A suspension is possible, although not considered likely. Bobby Rousseau scored two goals within a span of 1:26 early in the game and Pete Stenkowski and Glen Sather collected the other goals for New York.

Yvan Cournoyer and Marc Tardif scored two goals each for the Canadiens as Ken Dryden bested Buffalo's Dave Dryden in a duel of goaltending brothers. Rookie Richard Martin scored his 41st goal for Buffalo.

Garry Monahan, Ron Ellis and Jim Harrison scored for the Maple Leafs, who climbed into a fourth-place tie with idle Detroit in the East and Chicago scored six consecutive goals after falling behind, 2-0, to beat Los Angeles.

'Hellzapoppin' Makes Debut

NEW YORK (AP) — "Hellzapoppin" arrived as a variety show special on ABC Wednesday night. A comparison with "Laugh-In" is inevitable. The show was equipped with old jokes, sight gags, showers of feathers, even a character who strangely resembled Ruth Buzzi's forlorn Gladys. And it was produced by Caroline Raskin, for years a producer of "Laugh-In."

There is considerable irony in the relationship. When NBC's "Laugh-In" arrived on the television scene four years ago, it was widely compared with "Hellzapoppin," a stage hit in the 1930s and not so much of a hit movie in the 1940s.

To enjoy such a show, one must appreciate corn and knee-slapping jokes. For example, a Negro man stalked on stage in safari costume announcing, "I am the black hunter."

When the studio audience laughter subsided, he was asked how to make an elephant shake, to which he replied, "You take two scoops of ice cream..." the studio audience was in the aisles.

"Laugh-In" humor actually is a cut above that.

Actress Lynn Redgrave had a jolly time clowning—she even blacked out a couple of front teeth with chewing gum. Perhaps her greatest moment was when she asked cohosts Jack Cassidy and Ronnie Schell, "Do you mind a gorilla in here?"

"We certainly do," they replied in chorus.

"Well, mind this one for awhile," she replied, introducing them to a man in a gorilla suit.

The show tried to be mad, merry mildly naughty but it lacked the noise and freedom from inhibitions exhibited by both the original "Hellzapoppin" and "Laugh-In" of its early days.

The comedy team of Stiller and Meara has talent, heart, humor and, apparently, a yearning to possess a nice little situation comedy series. The seeds did not seem to be planted, however, in Wednesday night's episode of "The Courtship of Eddie's Father." It was designed as a pilot demonstration of a series idea.

Anne Meara got into Eddie's house as an employee of a service company that did everything from answering phones to catering dinners to babysitting dogs and children. Everything she touched, of course, went wrong but none of this was particularly amusing. Stiller played the head of the service company and had even less to do.

Somewhere there is a format just waiting to be found by this couple.

Cagey End Play Necessary

lead his jack or nine of trumps and West would be caught in a trump end play.

Where did Ely slip? He forgot to fine East and East was the real criminal. East should play his queen of hearts at trick one, to tell partner where the jack is. West could then underlead his ace to put East in and East could lead a trump and prevent any end plays.

Culbertson slipped a trifle with his assessment of fines on today's hand. He fined North quite properly for a very unsound jump raise. Then he fined West for a double that should have told South how to make his game contract and South for not finding the play.

In actual defense, West cashed the ace and king of hearts and shifted to a club. South won and promptly cashed his trump ace. So he had to go down one.

South could have made his contract by a complicated play. He could cash his second high club and ruff a heart in dummy. Then he would have to discard a diamond on dummy's king of clubs and ruff dummy's last club.

After that he would be able to play king of diamonds—small diamond to dummy's ace and ruff dummy's last diamond to bring the hand down to a three card ending. He could then

Kleindienst Admits Corporation Meetings

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Richard G. Kleindienst acknowledged publicly today he had a series of meetings with an official of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. during government negotiations in an antitrust case, but denied he influenced a favorable settlement for the giant corporation.

Kleindienst, nominated to succeed John N. Mitchell as attorney general, went before the Senate Judiciary Committee to answer charges that he influenced the antitrust out-of-court settlement for political reasons.

Kleindienst's nomination was approved unanimously by the committee last week. But before the Senate took a confirmation vote, Kleindienst asked to appear before the committee to discuss his part in the IT&T case. The committee did not formally reopen the confirmation hearings.

Columist Jack Anderson linked Kleindienst's activities in the case with a $400,000 contribution from the company to help defray costs of the Republican National Convention in San Diego this year.

Kleindienst, appearing composed and self-confident, delivered a 20-minute summation of his part in the settlement, which allowed IT&T to merge with the Hartford Insurance Co. while divesting itself of smaller properties.

Kleindienst said that in 1969 Mitchell disqualified himself from any part in the antitrust case because his former law firm—in which President Nixon also was formerly a partner—had at one time represented an IT&T subsidiary.

As No. 2 man in the Department of Justice, Kleindienst said he automatically became the administrative head for the case. He said he signed complaints against IT&T for acquiring the Canteen Corp., the Grinnell Corp. and Hartford Insurance.

On April 20, 1971, Kleindienst said he received a call from Felix Rohatyn, an IT&T director, asking for a meeting "to discuss some of the economic consequences to IT&T of the divestiture of Hartford."

Kleindienst said he had not heard of Rohatyn before that time, but subsequently learned that he was an economic adviser to the presidential campaign of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie. He said only himself and Rohatyn were present at that meeting and at a number of others which followed.

Kleindienst said Rohatyn said the company would be placed in a severe financial bind if it was required to divest itself of Hartford.

Anderson said Kleindienst participated in "roughly half a dozen secret meetings" with Rohatyn to settle the IT&T case.

Kleindienst said Rohatyn "asked me if I would direct" the antitrust division, to call a meeting for IT&T to outline these effects.

I said I would not direct McLaren to call the meeting, but would ask him to do so," Kleindienst said.

The meeting occurred on April 29, 1971, at the Department of Justice with a number of IT&T officials, antitrust officers, Treasury department representatives and Kleindienst himself present.

Kleindienst said he sat there throughout the session but said nothing.

Rohatyn, Kleindienst said, came to see him again on May 10 to discuss the case.

Kleindienst said that "soon thereafter" McLaren told him that after hearing the IT&T side, he felt "the government had a duty to consider the very serious consequences" of the Hartford divestiture and that he planned to get an outside economic consultant to study the matter.

On June 29 and again on July 15, Kleindienst said, Rohatyn visited his office to complain about the "rigid, hard, stringent, inflexible attitude" of McLaren—now a federal judge in Chicago—in the negotiations.

"I told him I would not inject myself into the settlement discussions," Kleindienst said.

The settlement was announced on July 31. It permitted IT&T to keep Hartford. On Sept. 14, Kleindienst said, Rohatyn came to his office once more for a "two or three minute social visit."

"That is the substance of the relationship I had with this antitrust matter," Kleindienst said. He added he had no discussions with IT&T attorneys or with any antitrust division staff members.

Phantom May Have Downed Enemy MIG

SAIGON (UPI)—One of two U.S. Phantom fighter-bombers flying cover for another mission fired a single missile at two attacking North Vietnamese MIG21s Wednesday and probably shot down one of the Communist planes, the U.S. command said today.

Two American soldiers were wounded in separate clashes in South Vietnam but action was generally light.

U.S. military sources said two F4 Phantoms fought two North Vietnamese-piloted MIGs 70 miles north of the Barthelmy Pass along the Laotian-North Vietnamese border.

The MIGs fired two missiles at the Phantoms and one of the U.S. planes fired a single missile in return. The U.S. pilot said he believed his missile downed the Communist aircraft.

The spokesman said armed Phantoms were "supporting air operations over Laos" when they spotted the approaching MIGs.

Air Force B52s from Thailand and Guam also continued raids against a suspected Communist stronghold, known as "Base Area 609" at the junction of the South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodian borders.

South Vietnamese troops moving into an area of the coastal lowlands 265 miles north of Saigon found bodies of 25 guerrillas killed by allied air strikes.

An Air Force F105 also reported firing a missile at a Communist antiaircraft site 39 miles northwest of Dong Ho in North Vietnam. The results of the incident, the 68th "protective reaction" strike of the year, were not known.

The two American wounded included a soldier hurt when Communists shot at a helicopter in Phu Yen Province in the Central Highlands.

The second wounded soldier was hit in a Communist ambush on Highway 20, 63 miles northeast of Saigon. There were no reported Communist casualties.

In Cambodia, Communist troops killed 17 government troops and wounded 20 others in a counterattack near the Angkor Wat ruins.

Meanwhile, in Paris, both sides did not attend today's scheduled session of the Vietnam peace talks.

At last week's Thursday meeting the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese delegations walked out after only 14 minutes without waiting to hear what the U. S. and South Vietnamese delegations had to say.

The allied delegations then said they would not attend today's meeting to protest the Communist walkout. The Communists in turn said they would not be on hand.

Although no definite date has been set, the talks presumably will resume next Thursday.

U.S. Heading for All-Volunteer Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is heading for an all-volunteer military force with the fewest men in nearly a quarter century and a cost at least $12 billion higher than before the Vietnam war.

R. Laird says no one can guarantee that higher pay and other new incentives "will suffice to satisfy the need for manpower, without resort to the draft."

But while there are uncertainties, Defense planners aim at ending the draft by mid-1973 and relying on volunteers from then on.

En route to this goal, Laird announced Wednesday he hopes to cut the draft to 50,000 men this year, lowest since 1949 when 9,781 were inducted.

At the same time, Laird said he may need to ask for congressional authority to draft men into the National Guard and reserves as a last resort. But he will propose a number of incentives to avoid this.

The number of men in uniform will level off at 2,358,000 by the mid-1973 date, under President Nixon's new defense budget.

An analysis of Nixon's budget shows the cost of major military "people" items will total about $27 billion in fiscal 1973. Back in fiscal 1965, the annual bill for pay and allowances, medical care, housing etc., came to about $15 billion for a force of 2,655,000 men.

Thus, just before the United States plunged deeply into the Vietnam ground war, it cost about $12 billion less to pay the "people costs" of a military establishment with nearly 300,000 men more than planned for post-Vietnam.

Some of that increased cost is attributable to inflation and salary boosts that would have been voted anyway. But much of the rise is directly traceable to the Nixon administration's drive for an all-volunteer force.

According to administration theory, the government can attract enough volunteers to military service if:

- Pay is brought more in line with civilian scales;
- The quality of service life is improved by eliminating irritants and expanding fringe benefits, and
- The country will accord uniformed men respect.

But many senior military officers contend the draft is indispensable, if only to spur young men into volunteering.

Nixon Working on Busing

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI)—Warmed by a homey Florida version of his tumultuous welcome back from China, President Nixon worked today on domestic issues including the tough question of school busing.

Repercussions from the China trip also were on Nixon's agenda. His national security advisor, Henry A. Kissinger, joined domestic aides at the President's bedside villa.

Nixon and Kissinger were expected to discuss just how the administration will brief European allies on the Chinese trip. Marshall L. Green, an assistant secretary of state, already is touring Asian capitals for similar briefings.

Gerald Warren, assistant White House press secretary, said Nixon brought a couple of briefcases full of papers on domestic problems to study during a long weekend.

Aides H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman accompanied Nixon and conferred with him during the flight from Washington to Miami.

Warren said racial busing would be discussed, but no presidential action was expected because Nixon hasn't yet received a report from the Cabinet committee he appointed to study the issue.

About 500 neighbors and children from the Key Biscayne Elementary School met Nixon as his helicopter landed just outside the presidential compound.

The children waved home-made signs, praising Nixon's Chinese trip, and so did some adults. "The twain did meet," said one sign. "Key Biscayne—we're proud of you," said another.

Nixon appeared pleased. He shook hands with children through a fence, then leaned to two docked houseboats and shook more hands. At one point he stepped on a loose board and could have fallen into Biscayne Bay. His daughter, Julie Eisenhower, and two Secret Service agents grabbed the President, and he regained his balance.

"Thank you very much for this wonderful welcome," Nixon said. "It's always a pleasure to come back home to Key Biscayne." Observing the crowd, Nixon asked with a smile: "Isn't anybody working today?"

Wednesday night, Nixon, Julie and their neighbor, C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, went to dinner at the quiet, fashionable Key Biscayne Hotel, about a mile from their home.

Librarian Breaks Up Davis Trial

By JACK V. FOX
SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—A little gray-haired retired librarian broke up the Angela Davis trial in laughter Wednesday when a defense lawyer was questioning her to determine whether she had the impartiality to serve on the jury.

Miss Winona H. Walker, in her 60s, was asked by attorney Howard Moore if she had heard that Miss Davis "dropped out of sight" shortly after the August, 1970, shooting at the San Rafael Courthouse.

"I do seem to recall that she was not available," Miss Walker said. "I think I would be inclined to be not available myself. It seemed a reasonable thing to do."

Miss Davis joined in the laughter and Judge Richard Arnason made no attempt to squelch the amusement registered by spectators although bailiffs had warned against any outbursts.

Miss Walker was the last prospective juror to be interrogated during a dragging day which saw only one more tentative juror added to the total of eight who had passed preliminary inquiries about personal hardship in serving and whether they were prejudiced by publicity about the kidnap-murder charge against Miss Davis.

The 28-year-old Miss Davis has not spoken a word during the formal hearing since the trial began Monday but she did hold a news conference last Friday after she was freed on $102,500 bail.

Prosecutor Albert W. Harris Jr. was disclosed to have asked the court to issue an order forbidding the defendant and attorneys for both sides from making such appearances before the television cameras and reporters.

Pipe Plot Disclosed

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—The Harrisburg Seven deliberately chose Washington's birthday as the target date in a plot to blow up heating pipes in the District of Columbia because it was the coldest time of year, the key government witness said Wednesday.

The prosecution's star witness, Boyd F. Douglas Jr., went into his fourth day of testimony today telling of letters he smuggled into and out of Lewisburg Penitentiary for Berrigan, an inmate, in 1970.

Douglas, also an inmate, turned FBI informant June 3, 1970, and began mingling with members of an antiwar movement, some now defendants.

He told Wednesday of being introduced on July 16, 1970, in Lewisburg, Pa., where he attended college on a prison study-release program, to Marjorie Shuman by the Revs. Joseph Wenderoth and Neil McLaughlin, both now defendants. Miss Shuman is listed as a co-conspirator but not a defendant.

By the end of the Wednesday session, the government had read 17 often discursive letters with veiled, inside references to the jury. These were exchanged between Berrigan and Sister Elizabeth McAlister, a defendant.
